TRAGEDY IN CHICAGO—Rescue workers swarmed over the debris of a four-story building in Chicago that collapsed without warning March 16, trapping three members of a wrecking crew under tons of brick, stone and steel. At least 14 other members of the wrecking crew were injured. One of the trapped men, who hung upside down in the wreckage, was feared dead. The man had been able to cry for help at first, but Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn crawled to the man's side and said that he appeared to be dead. (NEA Telephoto)

Goes to House Conference

Unemployment Bill Is Voted in Senate 84-4

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's emergency unemployment benefits bill has cleared the Senate after a narrow victory in his first showdown with Senate conservatives.

$650 Taken From Beer Firm Safe Thursday Night

Approximately $650 in small bills was taken from an unlocked safe in the office of Hill-Trandell, Inc., Tillson, beer distributors, between 9 p. m. and 10:15 p. m. Thursday, it was reported today.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Sheriff Charles McCullough, who conducted the initial investigation, reported that two employees who had been working at the plant left about 9 p. m.

At 10:15 p. m. one of them returned to the plant, located on Route 32, and discovered the burglary.

Brown said the burglar or burglars had smashed the glass in an overhead door in the warehouse, unlocked the door, then forced a second door between the warehouse and the office.

The money taken from a cash drawer in the safe consisted of collections by drivers of the company.

The burglary was reported to the sheriff's office by Edward Hill, an officer of the firm.

Brown said that nothing else was taken from the office or warehouse.

1500 Exhibits at Local Fair

51 Area Students Will Show Science Feats at New Paltz

Fifty-one intermediate grade students captured first prize blue ribbons in the third annual Kingston (Consolidated) Schools Science Fair this week and will compete in the May 12 Study Council Fair at New Paltz.

Grand prizes at the New Paltz competition, this year marking the third such contest of the Mid-Hudson School Study Council, will be U. S. Savings Bonds.

A total of 156 ribbons were awarded this week to local fourth, fifth and sixth grade exhibitors. Judging took place Tuesday and winners were announced Wednesday.

Approximately 1,500 displays and exhibits were entered in this year's local competition.

Judges were:

Roy Wulff and Jacob Hoechst, Electrol, Inc.; Boyd Miller and Carl Ig, Hercules Powder Co.; J. W. Egbert and D. W. Garlick, New York Telephone Co.; Wilbur Peters and Minford Overfield, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.; R. G. Counihan and F. Stern-Montagny, Kingston IBM and H. G. Bunting and Miss Ione Kinkade, of the Kingston High School Science Department.

Prize winners were: George Washington School, Advanced Sixth — 1st, Brian Roach, electrodialysis; 2, Ed DuBois, Robert Rion, wireless tele-

The measure was passed 84-4 Thursday night, but Kennedy won by only a two-vote margin on earlier fight to strip a state-by-state financing provision from the bill.

Enactment Assured

This success assures enactment of a measure close to the President's wishes. Elimination of the state-by-state provision restored the bill to the form in which it passed the House.

It now goes to conference with the House over some relatively minor amendments. Democratic leaders hope to get it to the White House by the middle of next week.

Four Opponents

Voting against the bill were Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Francis Case, R-S.D.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg expressed gratification at the wiping out of the financing provision sponsored by Byrd.

He said the 44-2 vote to knock out this amendment cleared the way for speedy adoption of the bill, and added that his department already has done preliminary work to speed the jobless aid payments.

Will Pay in 2 Weeks

The benefits are to be payable two weeks after Kennedy signs the bill. They would go to perhaps as many as 3 million workers who exhaust their regular unemployment compensation rights in the two years starting last June 30.

The extra payments are to run for half of the regular entitlement period in each state, up to a maximum of 13 weeks. They are (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Free Candies To Be Given All Children

The Easter Bunny, big egg and all, will arrive in Kingston Saturday between 9:30 and 10 a. m. The location will be somewhere on Wall Street, between John and North Front Streets.

The Bunny will give out free Easter candies to all youngsters present. Everybody is invited to enjoy the occasion.

The Easter Bunny will be greeted by Mayor Edwin F. Radel and other officials. The Uptown Businessmen's Association sponsors the event which marks the opening of the Easter shopping season.

Special Night Openings

Stanley London, chairman of the Special Uptown Merchants Promotion Committee, promises a big day on Saturday, especially for the children and suggested that early arrival would be advisable. Julius Rosenberg, A. P. Foerschler, and James Elder are in charge of the Easter Bunny's arrival in town. They say everything is in readiness, including the big egg, from which the Bunny will emerge. Music will be provided for the enjoyment of everyone.

Another special feature of the Easter shopping season will be special night openings of stores in the Uptown Business district. Stores will be open Monday evenings, March 20 and 27 and Thursday evenings, March 23 and 30, in addition to the regular Friday night openings. This is being done for the extra convenience of shoppers.

Teenage Talent Show Starts Tonight at 8

Twelve acts will be featured in the Teenage Talent show to-night at 8 in Kate Walton Field House. The show is sponsored by the Kingston High School Student Council and the Kingston Area Junior of Commerce.

Tonight's program will include vocalists, novelty acts, dancers and group singers. Proceeds will be shared by the sponsoring groups for their youth activities. Public is invited.

Will Start Span Work Next Week

One Ferry Put Out Of Newburgh Run

Work on the sub-structure of the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge is due to start next week, Dr. John L. Edwards, of Hudson, New York State Bridge Authority chairman, announced today.

Snare-Dravo, contractors for building 15 piers, he said, are due to ship from Wilmington, Del., Tuesday a caisson-type unit, known as a cutting edge, which sinks into the bottom in the building of footing. It will be towed from Wilmington and is expected to arrive at the bridge site during next week.

Ferry Disabled

It was also announced today that the ferryboat Orange, put out of service in a mishap between Beacon and Newburgh Tuesday afternoon, was replaced this morning by the transport Beacon, which is to continue operation pending repair of the Orange.

Contact with an object in the river twisted the shaft of the Orange. It was shipped to a drydock in New York.

Derricks Are Due

Piles at the bridge site are to be driven next week, and derrick and barge and derrick boats are due then to arrive in the area, the authority chairman said. Work should be well under way by April 1, he added.

Two contracts awarded, to date, total $9,220,420. The first was for the main center piers, and the second for 15 other piers. Snare-Dravo were awarded both. The span is due to be completed in the fall of 1963.

Loeb, Rhoades Investment Firm To Move Office

The investment firm of Carl M. Loeb, Rhoades & Co., 336 Clinton avenue, is relocating its office at 245 Wall street it was announced today by Frank D. Hoonbeek, manager of the local branch.

The new office will be equipped with some of the most modern communications systems in use today, Hoonbeek said. The private Western Union wire system provides immediate access to primary markets through branch offices and correspondents in more than 100 cities throughout the United States and Canada.

The local office will have both the New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange ticker service, in addition to the latest financial news provided by the Dow Jones News Service.

Rocky Ready To Sign Bill On Banking

By MICHAEL KEATING

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller prepared to sign today a controversial omnibus banking law for the second time.

The Legislature approved a bill Thursday to reinstate the law, passed by last year's Legislature and signed by the governor but declared illegal this week by State Supreme Court.

The law allowed New York City banks to expand into prosperous Nassau and Westchester counties, established provisions for formation of bank-holding companies, and authorized some Upstate banks to open new branches.

Stirs Debate

The judicial decision invalidating the law stirred the legislators to a debate on the prerogatives of the Legislature vs. the judiciary. In legislative matters, "we and we alone are supreme," declared Walter J. Mahoney, Senate Republican majority leader.

He objected that Justice Irving H. Saypol of State Supreme Court ruled that the law itself was unconstitutional but that the method in which the Legislature passed it was.

Saypol held that the bill had not been on legislators' desks for a three-day period before a vote was taken, as required by law.

Object to Speed

But Democrats objected to the speed with which the law was being reinstated. The reinstatement bill was brought up in the afternoon and, with a message of necessity from Rockefeller, was passed several hours later. A message of necessity permits immediate voting on a newly introduced bill.

To Employ 1,000 for Construction

Plan to Construct Mill At Ravena in April

Ground breaking for a new $64,000,000 cement plant at Ravena, Albany County is expected to take place late in April, it was announced by Bernard Ulrich, executive vice president and general manager of the St. Lawrence Cement Company, Clarkson, Ontario.

Ulrich will head the newly formed Atlantic Cement Co. Inc., which will operate the plant to be constructed on the Hudson River waterfront about 12 miles south of Albany.

2,000 Acres Optioned

The newly formed corporation controlled by Cerro Corp. and the Newmont Mining Corp. has more than 2,000 acres of land in the Ravena area under option to provide a plant site, loading station for ocean-going vessels on the river, and limestone reserve adequate to sustain production for more than 100 years.

More than 1,000 persons will be employed in the construction of the plant. The plant is expected to employ about 200 when it begins production, probably in 1963. The annual payroll will be in excess of $1,250,000, a company spokesman revealed. About 50 more would be employed at distribution stations the company plans to establish along the Atlantic seaboard.

The proposed plant described (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7)

as one of the largest cement mills on the Atlantic Coast and one of the largest in the free world will operate two rotary kilns 20 feet in diameter and about 600 feet long.

School and Snow Bills May Pass, Sprinklers Shaky

Measures dealing with use of a local park site for school purposes and easing of snow removal costs in municipalities today appeared sure of approval before next week's adjournment of the state legislature, but sentiment is questionable on a dealing with fire-protection sprinklers.

The sprinkler measure, it is felt, will not be without opposition, despite its vital safety factor, because of reported mounting school taxes in several state areas. The bill, however, resulting mainly of the persistence of local Fire Chief James M. Brett, has gained much backing from many important sources. It would mandate use of sprinklers in schools and other buildings.

The legislature, it was reported (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7)

Bill Calls for $47,000 Salary

Chief Judge of State Court Of Appeals May Receive Raise

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The chief judge of the State Court of Appeals, now the highest paid jurist in the nation, would receive a $3,000 raise, to $47,000 a year in pay and expense allowance, under terms of legislation introduced today.

The measure would provide the same increase for associate judges of the court and justices of State Supreme Court, whose pay and expense allowances now range from $29,000 a year to $41,500 a year.

The chief justice of the United States, Earl Warren, is paid $35,000 a year in salary.

Charles S. Desmond of Buffalo is the present chief judge of the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court. He now is paid $39,000 in salary and $5,000 for expenses.

In other developments on legislation:

The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill that was aimed at blunting the Teamsters' Union's drive to organize dairy farmers in Upstate New York.

Assemblyman Russell Selkirk, R-Cobleskill, sponsor of the bill, said it would prevent a "cow to consumer monopoly" by the Teamsters, who now represent the men who handle the milk.

The measure would prohibit a labor union from organizing farmers to allow the union to negotiate the prices farmers receive for their products.

The Senate passed and sent to the Assembly measures that would:

Exempt students working at summer resorts and employees of camps run by religious, charitable or other non-profit groups from the state's $1 an hour minimum wage law.

Prevent increases in the assessments of home-owners who installed fallout shelters if the increases were based on the value of the shelter.

Create a temporary state commission to revise the state's penal law and criminal code. The commission would have a $200,000 appropriation.

The Assembly Rules Committee introduced a measure that would prevent a worker on vacation from collecting unemployment benefits. The bill would include as employment any days the worker was being paid for a vacation or holiday.

The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

Permit high schools to teach a course on the methods and "destructive effects" of Communism. Require teachers to explain to parents the scores their children receive on intelligence or achievement tests.

Base Very Important In Crisis

State Department To Stay Friendly

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — By sudden decision of King Saud, the United States must give up its air base rights a year from now at strategic Dhahran Airfield on the Persian Gulf Coast of Saudi Arabia.

The State Department, disclosing the setback Thursday night, emphasized that the United States intends to continue "close and friendly cooperation" with Saudi Arabia in spite of this incident.

Important In Crisis

But officials conceded that the result of the king's decision will be to deny the U.S. government the use of air facilities which could be of great military importance in event of a major international crisis.

The field development goes back 15 years and has cost the United States many millions of dollars. But it has long been treated by both governments as a Saudi Arabian field used by the United States under terms of a formal agreement and subject to the jurisdiction of the Saudi government.

Won't Renew Rights

The agreement now in force is due to expire in April 1962. The United States has been notified, the State Department said, that the agreement will not be renewed. Officials said that means the rights of the U.S. government to operate from the field will end in April next year.

Dhahran has been a major base for operations of the military air transport flights through the Middle East, some of them around the world flights. It also has been the operating base of an Air Force air-sea rescue team. Officials said that no combat planes have been operated out of Dhahran. But it is understood that under the agreement the base (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Today's 9 Eclipses '56 Low for City. -11 Chills Upstate

Spring may be just around the corner but apparently the weatherman is unaware of this fact.

Incidentally, spring bows in next Monday, March 20 (according to the calendar, at least.)

Former Low 17

Winter's late season blast chilled the Kingston area Thursday night and this morning's 9 degree reading at 6:30 established a new low for this date. The previous low of 17 degrees for March 17 was set in 1956, according to the city engineer's office.

John Salapatis, assistant engineer in the local office, indicated today that Fridays are apparently becoming a weather vane.

In addition to today's new low for the date previous records were smashed on Fridays in past week.

A record high of 58 degrees was set at 12:45 p. m. Friday, March 3, and another record high of 58 was recorded Friday, Feb. 24.

Mercury Down Elsewhere

Elsewhere in the state the mercury showed similar plunges. Boonville and Potsdam, in the North Country, recorded 11 and 10 below, respectively, and it was -5 in the Turin-Lyons Falls area. State Police said roads in the North remained treacherous, because of hard packed snow and ice.

Overnight low temperatures reported by the Weather Bureau were all under 20 and ranged down to -1 at Massena and Watertown.

Warmer Saturday

The Weather Bureau said Saturday would be a little warmer. Overnight lows included:

Utica 1; Rome and Oneonta 2; Plattsburgh 4; Olean, Binghamton and Syracuse 5; Glens Falls 7; Albany and Buffalo 8; Rochester 10; Elmira 11; Poughkeepsie 13; Newburgh 14; New York City 18.

Chief Murphy Gets Letter Commissioners Laud Police For Their Burglary Arrests

Traffic, Larceny Charges Send Man To County Jail

A local young man booked Thursday night on three vehicle and traffic charges and on one of petit larceny was sentenced by City Judge Aaron E. Klein today.

Richard F. Mechelke, 23, of 303 Hurley Avenue, first drew the attention of Officer Thomas Coffey, who was then off duty.

On the charge that he lacked proof of insurance or financial responsibility, he was given the choice of paying a $100 fine or spending 30 days in jail. Ten days in jail was imposed for lack of registration, and a suspended fine of $10 was imposed for improper use of license plates. His license was suspended for 60 days because of the multiple charges and the plates were confiscated.

The petit larceny charge, dealing with theft of a 1961 license plate tag, drew a sentence of 30 days in jail. The $100 fine was not paid and the jail sentence was ordered concurrent with the others.

A police report at 8:19 p. m., noted that Officer Coffey had called for a patrol car to Bush's gas station, Hurley and Washington Avenue. Officer Louis Sapp was dispatched there. Mechelke was booked first on the vehicle and traffic counts and the petit larceny charge was lodged later at police headquarters.

Jury trial of Blas Rosado, 26, of 87 Pearl Street, charged with indecent exposure and resisting arrest, began this morning. It was due to continue through the afternoon. Attorney Richard Griggs appears for the defendant and Francis J. Vogt for the district attorney's office.

Plan to Build produce about 10 million barrels of cement a year. The project will cost $64 million. Cerro Corp and Newmont Mining Corp. each will own 45 per cent of the stock in the new corporation. The engineering department of St. Lawrence Cement Co., a holding of Cerro, will be responsible for the design and engineering of the new plant.

Operation Explained
According to announced plans of operation, crushed rock will be transported about 3,000 feet across Route 9W and the West Shore Railroad track from a limestone quarry by conveyor. The finished product will travel by conveyor from storage silos about 7,000 feet to the plant's proposed Hudson River loading station where it will be loaded on ocean-going vessels for delivery to distributing stations along the Atlantic Seaboard from New England to the Gulf of Mexico.

The plant will have storage space for three months supply and a river freeze-over will not halt or delay production. It will use water from the Hudson for industrial purposes and other water from wells. A new modern design will eliminate air or water pollution, a company spokesman said.

Esopus

ESOPUS—The regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary will be held at the firehouse Tuesday 8 p. m.

The board of assessors will be at the Esopus firehouse Saturday 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Assessors will be at the assessors' office, Town Building, Port Ewen, every Friday 7 to 9 p. m., until June 1 to talk to property owners.

The Rev. John Vicoli will conduct Sunday services in the Methodist Church 10:30 a. m. Sunday school for the children will be held 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Masses at Sacred Heart Church will be 8, 10 and 11 a. m. Lenten devotions will be held Wednesday 8 p. m. followed by Novena to Our Lady of Perpetual Help. Holy Mass Saturday is at 8 a. m.

Building Razed By Fire, Farm Machines Lost

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a one-story frame building on the Martorana farm, Modena, late Thursday night, including costly farm equipment.

No estimate of loss was immediately available but reported destroyed in the blaze were a truck tractor, a speed sprayer and other equipment.

The building was about 40 feet long by 40 feet wide. It was completely involved in flames when volunteers of the Modena Fire Company reached the scene shortly before 11 p. m.

The farm is reportedly owned by a New York City man. The fruit and vegetable trucking business is operated by Paul Cafaro and Sonny Martorana.

The building was located on the Al Heusen road in an easterly direction from Route 52. Firemen of the Modena and Clintondale companies found the building involved in flames and concentrated their attention on the protection of a two-car garage about 40 or 50 feet away and the residence about 100 feet from the burning structure.

Handling Cash Is Factor in Fixing Education Quality

The school budget was the principal topic of discussion at the third meeting of the Mid-Hudson School Board Institute Thursday evening at the State University College of Education, New Paltz.

More than 200 school board members and administrators heard Sidney Ticton, Ford Foundation consultant for the advancement of education, and Archibald Shaw, editor of Over-view magazine, present their views on the topic, "Reflector of Educational Goals—the School Budget."

Wilson P. Foss, a member of the board of directors, New York State Citizens Committee of Public Schools, served as moderator.

Those Arrested
Apprehended March 10 in the Pine Grove Manufacturing Co. Inc., 45 Pine Grove Avenue were Michael Christoro, 25, of 350 Broadway, Howard Quirk, Jr., 28, of 28 Liberty Street, and Patrick Burke, 20, of 24 Smith Avenue. They are under indictment.

The police March 13 claimed solution of more than 200 thefts with the arrest of Donald, 19, and George Waterman, 17, brothers of 61 German Street. They recently waived examination in city court and were held for grand jury action.

The other commissioners present were the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool and Dr. William Dean. Department Report
Chief Murphy reported 61 arrests and 16 persons injured in 12 city traffic mishaps in February. Of the arrests, 29 were for public intoxication, 11 for third degree assault, seven for city traffic code infractions, two each were held for third degree burglary, issuance of fraudulent checks, and resisting arrest. One each was made for second degree grand larceny, indecent exposure and unlawful intrusion. Six paid fines, 33 drew suspended sentences, one a jail term, three charges were withdrawn.

Unemployment

estimated to total around $927 million.

They would be paid for by a special temporary four-tenths of 1 per cent added to the present basic 3.1 per cent levy for the regular program. This tax is paid by employers.

Under the House bill as approved by the administration, the approximately $1 billion collected from this two-year tax would be pooled to pay for the benefits in all states.

Manages Amendments
Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee handled the bill, succeeding in getting that group to amend it to separate the funds so that each state's employers would pay for the benefits only in that state.

The administration argued that this would mean the states needing help most would get the least aid. It said that unemployment was a national problem, and that states in trouble should get assistance on this basis.

Stands and Fights
The finance committee acted Wednesday and Kennedy apparently decided that night or early Thursday to stand and fight on the issue.

His lieutenants, including Goldwater, conferred with Senate Democratic leaders before the Senate convened Thursday and were active all afternoon.

On the decisive test, 39 Democrats and 5 Republicans backed Kennedy to beat the Byrd amendment while 26 Republicans and 16 Democrats, 13 of them Southern, voted for it.

Administration leaders said this victory ranked in importance on the Senate side with the vote to enlarge the House Rules Committee in the other branch.

After it acted on the major bill, the Senate quickly passed and sent to Kennedy a companion measure extending the same kind of emergency benefits to an estimated 60,000 railroad workers.

The senate stayed in session 11½ hours, by far its latest night meeting of the year, to complete work on the two measures.

Puccini's opera "La Tosca" was first performed in Rome 1900. It is a melodious story of the love of a singer and a painter.

'Adults Only' Reminder Given On French TV

PARIS (AP)—The French state television network, which occasionally spices its programs with sex and undraped actresses, today adopted a special signal to warn when youngsters should look the other way.

A little white square will bob up in the lower right corner of the screen, reminding there throughout the "adults only" program in case anyone tunes in after the announcer has given the usual verbal warning.

Injunction Sought In Rule Change Of Compensation

The New York State AFL-CIO will institute injunctive court action to prevent destruction of the rights of the injured workers under the Workmen's Compensation Law.

This was announced in a telegram to Governor Rockefeller by Harold C. Hanover, president of the New York State AFL-CIO, at the end of an emergency conference held Thursday in Albany.

The State AFL-CIO said it is resolved to stop the further erosion and emasculating of the Workmen's Compensation Law by an administrator who is blind to the needs of the injured worker and the welfare of the community.

The immediate cause of this action is a change in the procedure which the chairman of the board is instituting in April. This change will result in a denial to a claimant to have his case heard by an impartial referee.

Such a denial is not only contrary to the expressed provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law but is a violation of the basic right of due process guaranteed by the constitution.

'56 Firecracker Injuries Basis Of Court Action

Injuries suffered by Charles F. Staccio of Willow Street Sept. 9, 1956, when he threw an unexploded firecracker on a fire at the premises of St. Mary's Benevolent Association of Kingston on North Street, are the basis of a negligence action before Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth.

Staccio, then 12 years of age, suffered very severe injuries to his hand and fingers when an unexploded firecracker or bomb found on the premises exploded when he broke it open and threw it on a fire.

The explosive was left on the premises from a firework display the previous night. The action is brought against the Benevolent Association and the Legion Fireworks Company, which had put on the fireworks display on the previous Saturday night.

Charles H. Gaffney appears for Staccio and Howard C. St. John and Andrew J. Cook appear for the Benevolent Association and the fireworks company.

Staccio, with several companions on the premises of the Benevolent Association on Sunday morning, following the fireworks display, pieces of unexploded fireworks were found by the boys and thrown on a fire. When a second large fireworks part was found by Thomas Primo, it was taken by Staccio, broken in two and the powder thrown on a fire. There was an explosion and he was severely injured.

He was taken to Benedictine Hospital for treatment and later skin grafting was resorted to. He contends his hand has been very severely injured, causing a serious handicap. In addition to damages, the action is to recover for medical bills amounting to over $2,000 which were contracted as a result of the accident.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Both private and government borrowers are taking advantage of the lowering of interest rates on longer-term debt issues.

The lender's loss thus becomes the borrower's gain. And in the United States borrowing is a science as well as a way of life. Corporations are refinancing at better terms some of their more expensive debt when they can. The U.S. Treasury is finding the lower rates a nice climate for its long-held aim of stretching out the maturity of the federal debt at a less burdensome carrying cost than a year or so back. The Treasury pays $9 billion a year in interest alone.

Better Opportunity Now

A number of previously hesitant local government agencies are seeing a better opportunity to finance cherished projects. And housing builders already are counting on cheaper financing helping to revive home sales, even if these chickens are yet to be hatched.

An example of corporate interest reshuffling is current moves by American Telephone & Telegraph and a number of its Bell System companies. When interest rates were high—thanks to brisk demand for borrowed funds and to official policies of pushing up rates to dampen inflation fires—AT&T sold 5% per cent debentures in November 1959, maturing in 1986. These are callable, and AT&T proposes to pay off some of them by selling $250 million new ones at rates that in the present market should be from 4 1/4 to 4 1/2 per cent.

Somewhat similar refundings are proposed by Southern Bell T&T, New England T&T, and Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania. They were paying out from 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 per cent on the old issues, and anticipate a nice saving on the new ones.

Seem to Be in Reverse

At first glance the U.S. Treasury's latest refunding move would seem to be in reverse. It is offering to replace old securities with new ones carrying higher interest charges. That is, it's offering to pay 3% and 3 1/2 per cent on new ones to holders turning in old ones paying 2 1/4 and 2 1/2 per cent.

But the Treasury holds the deal will benefit it for these reasons: The old notes and bonds would mature in 1962 and 1963, and the Treasury is faced with a large amount of securities coming due this year and in the next two. It may be called upon also to seek a lot of new money if the budget deficit rises as some predict under pressure of a flock of spending ideas being mulled by Congress.

Low Rates Helpful

The Treasury would like to refund as small an amount of maturing debt as possible in the next three years. So it is offering new ones to holders of the 1962 and 1963 securities, paying more but maturing in 1966 and 1967.

Lower interest rates on medium-term and long-term debt is helping the Treasury to stretch out its debt in this way at less cost than a year ago. Remember when the Treasury issued some securities carrying a 5 per cent yield?

And the lower yields available in the competing markets—corporate bonds, state and local securities and home mortgages—will make some investors look with favor on the latest Treasury offering.

Just how favorably we'll know when the Treasury opens subscription books on the new issues next week.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

This is St. Patrick's Day, the anniversary of the patron saint of Ireland. Down through the centuries—some historical authorities have set 463 A.D. as the year of his death—Saint Patrick has been honored in many lands by many nationalities, but to the world at large it is Ireland's Day.

In observance of St. Patrick's Day and as a salute to Ireland, green is worn and parades and social functions are held. Primarily a religious holiday, special church services still are held in some churches.

Many legends are connected with the life of St. Patrick, a truly remarkable man. He brought Christianity to Ireland, where he labored for 30 years displaying undaunted courage, faith and cheerfulness. Something out of his character has been handed down to his followers, who look back to him with special affection.

A STRAW TO GRASP

Negotiations looking to a permanent ban on nuclear weapons testing are scheduled to get under way again in Geneva on March 21. Although there is nothing in this to touch off dancing in the streets, a certain degree of optimism seems warranted. This optimism should be tempered by determination—made entirely clear to the Russians, so that there can be no mistaking it—not to continue the talks indefinitely unless there is a genuine prospect of agreement on a control system.

A sensible degree of optimism is rooted mainly in the fact that a nuclear test ban, with the possibility that this might be the first step toward control of nuclear weapons, is in the best interests of the Soviet Union as well as of the West. Whatever its reasons for stalling since the nuclear ban talks began more than two years ago, the Kremlin is not foolhardy enough to welcome the risks of uninhibited nuclear testing and all that this implies.

The Russians have been dragging their heels during the past eight months or so; they have been "sitting out" the period of campaign and administrative change in the United States. But there is some reason to believe that, having made a point of turning their backs on the Eisenhower administration ostensibly because of the U-2 incident, they will now be in a mood to push for agreement.

Perhaps it is grasping at a straw to see this possibility. Well, straws must be grasped at this stage of history. Mankind is in danger of going down. No possibility of averting nuclear disaster can reasonably be overlooked.

WHAT THE WORDS MEAN

Political philosophers rightly groan about the deterioration, in our time, of the meaning of words whose definition was once well accepted. This deterioration is most hopelessly demonstrated in the perversion of words behind the iron curtain.

Poland is a forlorn case in point. Here, where the government calls itself the "Polish Peoples Republic," national "elections" will be held in April. Though it is stoutly maintained that these elections will be a "democratic" procedure, the slate of candidates will be selected solely by the Communist-front organization.

According to a dispatch from Warsaw, a slight concession will be made: there will be more than one candidate running for each office. But this will be a scant help to the poor Pole who would like to turn out his government. To offer him two candidates for mayor when both will be Communist is a tragic frustration of the electoral right.

This is nothing new to peoples submerged under Communism. But the free world should use each such event as a continuing reminder of the misrepresentation Communists make of "elections." Calling tyranny democracy doesn't make it so.

Those who think Ike's last budget will be stretched a little are optimists. The pessimists think it will be stretched a great deal.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
BATISTA'S INTERVIEW

After a silence of two years, Fulgencio Batista has presented his point of view in a letter to "The Miami Herald." It is surprising that the Senate Committee which is now holding Executive session hearings on the Cuban fiasco has not called Batista to give his side of the startling claim that it was American officials who instructed him to resign, to leave Cuba, and to turn that country over to Fidel Castro.

For what the testimony of Ambassadors Arthur Gardner, Earl E. T. Smith and Robert Hill amounts to is precisely this and although Executive session testimony is not available for quotation, most of this data will sooner or later be published verbatim.

The testimony of Ex-Ambassador to Brazil, William D. Pawley, has been made available. It is to the Pawley evidence that Batista addresses himself. Batista says of Pawley:

"... He further said that, although he was not authorized by the State Department, high officials of the latter were of his opinion, however, he could not say or remember their names."

Of course, Pawley may have declined to reveal the names of the persons in the State Department who agreed with his view that Batista should form a government including the opposition. But it is impossible to believe that he did not remember who they were. Pawley has had a long experience in Asia and in Latin America, and is not likely to forget readily why he came to Cuba.

Batista replied to the idea of including the opposition in his government as follows:

"During this private talk I gave him my opinion about the very serious situation that confronted my country, which was a victim of intense terrorism at that moment, and under Communist pressure, whose influence and control had been amply proved; I explained to him that the conversations with the opposition had come to an end, because Castro opposed them, threatening the leaders with permanent loss of all promotion, prison or death, if they continued to have contact with my representatives."

This is mindful of those days in China when General George Marshall and General "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell were putting pressure on Chiang Kai-shek to include the Chinese Communists in his government. It is mindful of those very busy people in the State Department who were under the influence of the Institute of Pacific Relations and who were busy trying to formulate policy to accommodate Soviet Russia—a policy which has brought damage to the United States.

Batista thereupon states his reasons for accusing Castro of being a Communist and according to his statement, the State Department was fully informed in 1958. This confirms the statements of the Ambassadors that they had informed the State Department of Castro's Communist affiliations prior to Castro's seizure of power. Although Pawley could not establish in Batista's mind the bonafides of his authority, a week after the Pawley visit, Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith returned to Havana from Washington. Of this, Batista said:

"We met at night in my library of the Kuquene Estate, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Gonzalo Guell, and I. The Ambassador apologized for what he was about to say, and told us in as many equivalent words that Washington considered my government over and they could not recognize that Dr. Rivero Aguero, president-elect, who would be sworn in the following February."

"At the end he surprised me greatly by practically repeating Pawley's words, in the sense that a provisional government could establish peace through negotiations with the leader Castro, or confront him with arms, duly supported, if the Communist leader rejected to consider the negotiations; that Washington was of the opinion that I should avoid great bloodshed if I abdicated, adding that my family could go directly to Daytona Beach, and I also, if I wished, although the government officials with whom he had spoken in the United States preferred, for political reasons, that I should go to Spain, or some other country for three or four months, at the end of which I could rejoin my wife and children in the home that we had owned in Daytona for some years."

This is an amazing story. Who, in the State Department, authorized Pawley or Smith to order a government to go out of existence? This, from the standpoint of American policy is more important than whether Pawley, Smith, or Gardner adopted the right attitude toward Castro. (Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A trio of minor disturbances appear to be of major importance to a trio of correspondents. Circles under the eyes cause one writer to "fret terribly." A husband's snores "make the night impossible" for another. And a dropped stomach is so "distressing" to a third that she's contemplating surgery to "rid her of her agonies."

Almost without exception, circles under the eyes are a family characteristic of no medical importance.

Unless a physical examination reveals some unusual finding that, in the doctor's opinion, is a direct cause for darkening beneath the lower lid, the condition is one with which the person must learn to live. Admittedly, it appears more marked as a consequence of fatigue, menstruation or loss of sleep.

Nevertheless, medical mythology to the contrary, it is not due to "bad habits," "worms," anemia or excesses of any kind. And if it is a cause for embarrassment, it can be lightened with make-up just as the upper lid can be darkened for cosmetic reasons with eyeshade.

It is true, as the wife of the snorer has been told, that almost all of us make some sort of noise during sleep. If the husband in question has no particular defect of his nasal passages to account for his particular nocturnal noises, I'd suggest a trial with a chin support for him. And ear plugs for the snoring wife.

Since the letter gives off an air of real concern for the snorer, I've an idea that the writer will suffer much greater distress if and when she ceases to hear "ein kleine nachtmusik," to quote Mozart.

A "dropped stomach" is a poor excuse for surgery.

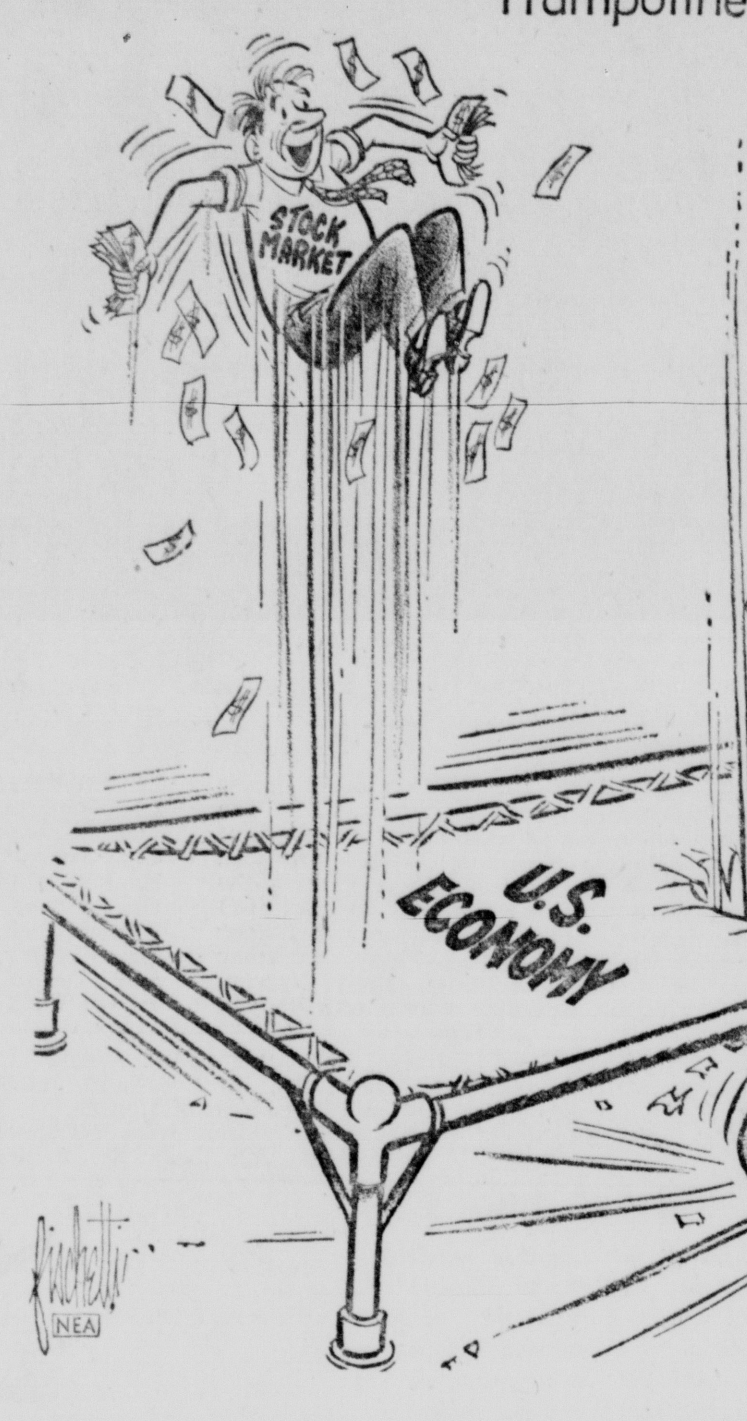

It is not at all unusual to find the lower border of the stomach extending well below the level of the navel, when a lean person is x-rayed in the standing position after having drunk a large glassful of a heavy barium mixture. Rarely is this "dropping" the cause of any significant distress.

If no other explanation is forthcoming for the accompanying complaint, the stomach may be prevented from falling by use of a padded abdominal support that must be put on while the subject is reclining with hips elevated above shoulders.

As to surgery for a fallen stomach, it's a "tailoring" procedure to which I would never give my sanction.

Dear Reader: Dr. Hyman appreciates your comments and questions but regrets that the heavy volume of his mail doesn't permit him to answer each individual letter or post card. However, he will comment in columns like the above upon matters of general or unusual interest.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — U. S. foreign aid operators in the less developed countries have been kicked around a lot for their mistakes. So when they come up with a success story, it's worth telling. Such an example has just come to hand.

It is an illustration of the experience it will take to keep the new Youth Peace Corps from becoming a dismal failure by a bunch of untrained green kids turned loose on the world.

THIS IS THE TRUE STORY of a real-life American—not just a character in fiction. His name is Oliver Gordon Young. He is 33. He was born in China of Baptist missionary parents. And he has a California State Poly science degree in animal husbandry.

He is, moreover, a linguistic scholar in many hill tribe dialects in Southeast Asia. This has enabled him to reach regions which neither the Thai government nor the U. S. International Cooperation Administration technical assistance people have been able to reach before.

BY TRADE, YOUNG IS A HUNTER. His father began taking him on hunting trips when he was 8 years old. He now collects live animals for zoos throughout the world and natural history specimens for American museums.

"I've never been lost in the jungles," he says. "But there have been times when I didn't know exactly where I was for four or five days." On such trips he lives off the land — monkey meat, bamboo shoots, whatever is at hand.

Becoming friends with the mountain people who respected his hunting skill, Young was struck by their deplorable living conditions. He describes them as "an appalling picture of poverty, disease, ignorance, malnutrition and the worst sanitary conditions in the world."

He began trying to improve their living conditions about five years ago, as a one-man foreign aid mission.

The hill people grew rice, millet, corn and pepper without benefit of farm implements, animals or carts of any kind. And they never grew more than enough for bare subsistence.

TESTING THEIR SOIL, Young found that it was good for coffee, tea and orchard crops. He brought them seed, medical supplies and a few tools. He was so successful that he persuaded one whole village to give up opium culture and switch to coffee and tea. They have a co-op running the business now.

That started it. Today, with the co-operation of the ICA mission and the Thai government, Young the American is collecting basic information on all the hill tribes. He estimates there are about 30 of them, with 200,000 people.

"They are self-sufficient in a sense," says Young. They depend on the jungle for their hut-building materials and some of their food. They weave a coarse cloth, make their own dyes and grass baskets. They are animists, with many customs strangely similar to those found in African jungle tribes. They consider water to be possessed of evil spirits, and rarely bathe.

In spite of their primitive culture, the tribesmen have a few simple virtues they might well exchange for the seed, fertilizer, medicine and tools of "more civilized" people.

"They practice the theory that there are four mortal, unforgivable sins," says Young. "These are stealing, murder, adultery and indebtedness."

"Punishment is severe. The criminal may be brought before a one-man council, usually the proverbial witch doctor, who passes sentence. This varies from execution by spearing, cutting off heads or just running the accused into the jungle to be killed by pursuing hunters. For lesser crimes—such as telling a lie—the sinner may be merely whipped."

Another question that arises is why an internal question such as trouble in Angola, was considered by Adlai Stevenson to be one that the United States should agree to have investigated by the United Nations. It might develop that some of the U. N. members would like to investigate how America handles its "segregation" problems in the South.

THE SOUTH AFRICA ISSUE
In the last few days, an international conference has been going on in London in which several former British colonies, now independent, openly criticized South Africa and virtually forced her out of the so-called commonwealth group because of the way racial problems are being handled in that country. Even though soon to become an independent republic, South Africa's internal affairs were considered a subject for formal denunciation by several nations in the British commonwealth conference. This led to the withdrawal by South Africa of her participation in the commonwealth group hereafter.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

TUCSON, March 16 — A few days ago I met a passenger brakeman toiling along with that enormous, battered black book which they carry and he seemed glad of an excuse to set it down and pant a few heaves in the noonward sun when I said, "Excuse me; did you ever hear of Maricopa Slim?"

"Yes," he said, "Sure I did, but this man behind you could tell you better." The man behind me is a tall, skinny man about 60, with weathered nose with little mementoes on it as though he had been in a few fights. He is Thomas Jefferson Grisham, now retired these 11 years from the Southern Pacific after a heart attack. He lives in the Lewis Hotel, one flight up. You turn left at the top of the broad stairs and past the desk where nobody was keeping store when I called next day. I hollered "Hey" and a cleaner-woman appeared. When I asked for Mr. Grisham she said "I'll see if he's in" and let out a roar: "Jeff!" The first door on the left in the dark hall pulled open and Jeff said "I was just resting a little. After a while I generally go over to the Esquire and drink a little beer. I do not drink any whiskey, but I drink a pretty good bunch of beer. Sit down on the bed."

Jeff said Maricopa Slim was a railroad bull and the most abusive, just unnecessarily darn mean man you could think of. But not many other railroad people or any other people. Just mean to hoboos. It has been war between the bulls and the 'boes from way, way back and you can't say the bulls were in the wrong because there was no FBI in those days and the railroad bulls did good work on itinerant safeblowers and stickups and all who rode the freights. They got to know the criminals and passed the word and they helped one another, too.

But Maricopa Slim, he came from the little spot called Maricopa, over to the west of Tucson, not a town at all, really, just a spot with a name.

Well, this colored hobo, he had been working with a little circus and something happened to the circus, anyway, he was with Maricopa Slim so Slim pistol-whipped him. Hammered his skull and raked his face with the butt of his pistol, the way a lot of impatient fellows do nowadays in any old saloon.

"I wasn't there," Jeff said,

Today in National Affairs

Stevenson's Deals in U. N. With Soviets Questioned

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Mar. 16 — There are some strange goings-on at the United Nations these days so far as the United States is concerned. "Quiet diplomacy" appears to be operating with a cover of secret maneuvering. The American people are in the dark about it all.

Adlai Stevenson, American representative at the U. N., is the big question mark. Why, it is being asked on Capitol Hill, did he favor voting with the Soviet Union and against Great Britain and France on the Security Council to meddle in the affairs of Portugal in her African territory of Angola?

Trading With Gromyko? Why also has Mr. Stevenson been trading privately with Foreign Minister Gromyko of the Soviets about dropping the resolution concerning Hungary in exchange for the cutting-down of the program of debate on other issues which America presumably wants to avoid?

Since when is public discussion an evil thing in international affairs, especially when human rights are involved?

If there are sound reasons from a diplomatic viewpoint to engage in such a barter deal, these have not been revealed, and that's why members of Congress are beginning to express their concern over what's happening.

Portugal in NATO
Portugal is an ally of the West. It's a member of NATO. It owns the Azores and permits American military forces to use these islands for air bases and naval anchorages in the mid-Atlantic. Why did the United States take the risk of antagonizing Portugal?

Another question that arises is why an internal question such as trouble in Angola, was considered by Adlai Stevenson to be one that the United States should agree to have investigated by the United Nations. It might develop that some of the U. N. members would like to investigate how America handles its "segregation" problems in the South.

THE SOUTH AFRICA ISSUE
In the last few days, an international conference has been going on in London in which several former British colonies, now independent, openly criticized South Africa and virtually forced her out of the so-called commonwealth group because of the way racial problems are being handled in that country. Even though soon to become an independent republic, South Africa's internal affairs were considered a subject for formal denunciation by several nations in the British commonwealth conference. This led to the withdrawal by South Africa of her participation in the commonwealth group hereafter.

A tendency to disregard the difference between internal and external questions has long been noted among groups or factions inside a country seeking outside sympathy. Thus for many decades even the political parties in this country, in their national platforms, openly expressed sympathy for the aspirations of the Irish people for freedom and independence. This offended the London government, but at no time did the United States government ever take any official action or express publicly any sentiment of that kind.

Sympathy for Boers
Indeed, the Democratic platform in the early days of the century proclaimed sympathy with the Boers in South Africa when they were fighting to throw off the British yoke and gain independence. So it's not unusual for public opinion to be expressed on any subject, whether of an internal or external nature.

Risks arise, however, when governments take the position that it is proper to inquire into the operations of another government with which peaceful relations are being maintained. If the internal action threatens peace, it is, of course a different story, for the situation then becomes the concern of all peoples who may be plunged into war. That's one of the reasons, incidentally, for the UN operation in the Congo today.

There used to be a time when individual nations sent military expeditions into troubled areas to protect the lives and property of their own citizens. This function has been theoretically transferred lately to the UN, though the latter organization by no means has found an effective way as yet to discharge its new responsibilities.

The people of the United States are deeply concerned over the freedom of the peoples of Hungary and the other Soviet "colonial" states. But the indications now are that Adlai Stevenson has about given up any idea of championing the rights of Hungary and appears to be willing to keep the issue off the UN agenda indefinitely.

So the United States winds up in the paradoxical position of being willing to offend little Portugal by inquiring into her internal affairs, but of appearing to be afraid to antagonize big Russia by insisting on a public inquiry into what is happening in Hungary and in other countries behind the iron curtain.

Hope Not Bright For Keeping of Center at Rome

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House might be reluctant to overrule any Defense Department decision to shut down the Rome, N. Y., Air Materiel Area, a New York congressman says.

Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, D-N.Y., said Thursday he thought that President Kennedy might countermand a Defense Department order only if Rome were involved.

But, O'Brien added, more than the Rome depot is involved. He said an entire Air Force plan to streamline its procurement facilities in line with modern-day armaments was at stake.

Although no decision has been made, it has been reported that the procurement facility at Griffiss Air Force Base would be closed with the loss of 6,240 civilian jobs.

O'Brien met Thursday with Frederick G. Dutton, a special presidential assistant, who had requested more information on the impact the possible shutdown might have on the Utica-Rome area.

The congressman said a slight ray of hope had been offered by a Defense Department announcement Wednesday that no major reductions would occur at Griffiss until mid 1963, if the plan now under study were approved.

This delay, O'Brien said, would provide time for the area and the Kennedy administration to determine what could be done to minimize any closing at Griffiss.

Bipartisan Appeal by Four

Mayors Seek Drastic Action For More School State Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — "Drastic emergency action" to provide more state aid to education is sought in a bipartisan appeal by the mayors of New York, Buffalo, Rochester and Yonkers.

The State Conference of Mayors and the mayor of Albany have endorsed the plea.

The appeal was contained in a statement issued after a meeting here Thursday of four mayors — Robert F. Wagner of New York, a Democrat; Frank A. Sedita of Buffalo, also a Democrat; Peter Barry of Rochester and Kristen Kristensen of Yonkers, both Republicans.

The mayors' joint statement said the state aid program has lagged far behind the rising cost of education in their cities. "As far as our own financial efforts are concerned," they said, "we have just about come to the end of the road."

The mayors did not specify the amount of money they want. They said, however, that the total should be many times the amount their cities would receive if the joint legislative committee's recommendations were followed.

The committee proposals, the mayors said, "would benefit the average city by possibly one per cent."

The statement by the mayors said their cities are "in this position because we are in the main bound by constitutional and statutory limitations as to taxing powers—the money we can legally charge to our local residents for the cost of running and maintaining our local governments, including education—while there is no limit to the demands caused by rapid changes in the population and economy of our local cities."

Willing to Wait Year

Although the state aid program is in need of drastic change, the mayors said, they are willing to wait until next year for a major revision, provided adequate relief is given this year to meet current problems.

The mayors' meeting was attended also by Mayor William D. Ryan of Newburgh, a Democrat, and Mayor Dan Reidy of Ardsley, a Republican, who represented the State Conference of Mayors; Don Walsh, counsel to the mayors conference; Philip Baczowski, budget director of Buffalo, and Charles L. Curran, city manager of Yonkers.

Albany to Check Operations of 8 Blue Cross Plans

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A legislative committee will inquire into the operations of the eight Blue Cross plans in the state to determine what they are doing to check rising hospital costs.

Sen. George R. Metcalf, R-Albany, said Thursday the Legislature's Committee on Health Insurance plans would hold a hearing in several cities next fall. No dates or sites were announced.

Blue Cross is a non-profit plan under which subscribers are insured for costs of hospital care within specified amounts.

Metcalf also said that recent charges against Blue Cross had been "exaggerated out of proportion to their seriousness."

The Health Insurance committee, of which Metcalf is chairman, earlier this month heard criticisms at a hearing that Blue Cross had given Christmas bonuses and pay raises at a time it sought major rate increases.

Jackson, Seventh President, Topic For Kiwanis Club

Andrew Jackson, the seventh president of the United States, was the subject of a talk by Richard F. Riseley, local real estate representative, at the weekly meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday.

"History shows that Andrew Jackson was a doer in the most direct and courageous way. It gives us a man who by the will of the people and not his own selfish ambition rose from frontier poverty to the highest office in the land, and used all his facilities for the good of the Union and people, with complete disregard for his personal gain," the speaker said.

Assertions Correct

This was the portrayal of "Old Hickory," as Andrew Jackson was known, by the speaker who for many years claims he was the object of kidding about his interest "in the first Democrat."

"Today I proved to many that my assertions over the years have been correct," Riseley said.

The speaker was introduced by Attorney Frederick H. Stang, former mayor of Kingston and for years a crusader for the idea that "Abraham Lincoln was the greatest American." This designation of Lincoln has been the subject of a friendly debate between the speaker and the former mayor, and was designated by Kiwanis President Vincent G. Connelly as the contributing factor in the appearance of Riseley speaking on the subject of Andrew Jackson.

Man of Iron Will

Despite the various insinuations concerning the status of Lincoln versus Jackson, Riseley traced the rise of Jackson from his birth, after the death of his father, in a log cabin in the wilderness to his entrance into military life, then the legal profession, and his subsequent arrival at the White House in Washington as the seventh President of the United States.

Jackson was portrayed as a man with "an iron will and an iron fist who used both many times for the good of the people and the Union." Riseley said: "I think that the life of Andrew Jackson is a stirring example of how raw guts, deep honesty, plain common sense, and direct action can overcome seemingly insurmountable barriers, and solve problems of depressing magnitude."

In closing, the speaker asserted that "we have had a portrait of a forceful man, one who made no compromises with indecision and dishonesty. It is my humble belief, gentlemen, that Andrew Jackson was our greatest President, and very possibly the greatest American."

Nadler, Beaumont Buy Cousins Site

Sale of another property on Albany Extension, Town of Ulster, was announced Thursday when Robert Nadler and Robert Beaumont of Bob Nadler, Inc., acquired the Cousins Fuel, Inc. property opposite the site of the proposed shopping center on the Kraus Farm site.

The property has a frontage of 110 feet on Albany Avenue and extends back to the New York Central Railroad tracks. Located on the premises for sometime was the model home of Island Dock, Inc. This home has been removed from the site which adjoins the present site of the used car lot of Bob Nadler, Inc.

Harry Gold represented the purchasers, and Connelly and Connelly represented the seller in the transaction. In purchasing the premises, Nadler and Beaumont expressed their confidence in the future growth of this section and its business potentials.

The above marks are documentary proof of the mileage potential built into today's cars using Mobil. They were scored on the 1961 Mobilgas Economy Run—world's greatest official proof of mileage economy.

Mobil has been economy proved in every make of American car. This year sixty-five cars were entered; they traveled 2561 miles, from Los Angeles to Chicago—over deserts, mountains, crowded city streets. Only Mobil goes to such lengths to demonstrate to you the mileage-economy possible from today's cars.

You can prove this economy in your own car. Fill up with Mobil Regular or Special... improved with Preptane, the new long-

JFK's Policy Pleases Africans But May Irritate Some Allies

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's start down a new road on African policy this week, like much he has said and done since entering the White House, was foreshadowed by what he said in the presidential campaign.

It's a switch from the policy of the Eisenhower administration and has already pleased Asians and Africans.

Difficulties May Result
But if pursued steadily—it's too soon to know how far Kennedy intends to go—it will almost certainly irritate if not anger some American allies and cause difficulties with them.

Repeatedly during the campaign Kennedy, promising a new attitude toward Africa, used this phrase: "We must ally ourselves with the rising tide of nationalism in Africa."

And even before that his secretary of state, Dean Rusk, was part of a group which said pretty much the same thing about the kind of attitude this country should have toward Africa.

In 1959 Rusk was chairman of a study panel set up by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, after studying American foreign policy problems, he said: "Today the United States is in the position of encouraging by practical, on the spot measures the emergence of a new political order in Africa. It has an equal interest in seeing the era of colonialism pass, and in seeing that disorder and violence do not succeed it."

Twice in the past two days this country in the United Nations has given evidence of following the policy both Kennedy and Rusk said was necessary.

Adlai Sides With Soviet
The first was Wednesday night when Adlai E. Stevenson, American ambassador to the United Nations, lined up with the Soviet Union and three African-Asian delegations in the Security Council on a resolution calling for reforms in Portuguese Angola.

Previously this country had almost always lined up with its big allies on colonial issues. For example: Just last fall the Eisenhower administration abstained from voting on a resolution calling for an end to colonialism as soon as possible.

Then Thursday the United States in the General Assembly took a position opposite Britain, France, Belgium and Portugal when it went along with a resolution censuring the Union of South Africa for repeatedly ignoring U.N. resolutions aimed at eventual freedom for the territory of South-West Africa.

That area, larger than Texas, has about 540,000 people, including 66,000 Europeans.

Must Continue Policy
It seems reasonable to assume that since both Kennedy and Rusk not only had time to think through the consequences of this policy, good and bad, they will, now that they've started it, go on with it.

During the campaign Kennedy said the desire to be independent "is the most powerful force of the modern world." He added: "It is vital that we unequivocally place ourselves on the side of man's right to govern himself."

"Nationalism is the one force with the strength and endurance to threaten the integrity of the Communist empire itself."

Kennedy talked a great deal about American help to Africa. None of it has taken shape yet. It is in the formative stage and will probably appear piece by piece.

As a first step weeks ago Kennedy sent his assistant secretary of state for African affairs, G. Mennen Williams, to Africa to look around and get acquainted. Even this trip, when Williams talked about "Africa for the Africans," angered some American friends.

World acreage for wheat, the leader, is 500 million acres. Rice is second and corn is third in world grain production.

Recession Near Bottom: Report; Smiles for GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) —February has brought the first signs that the recession has reached bottom or is close to it, the Federal Reserve Board reports.

The board said Thursday the main signpost was that February saw a halt in the unbroken six-month drop in over-all industrial production.

Republicans greeted the board's monthly "National Summary of Business Conditions" with smiles and noted that it came before any of President Kennedy's anti-recession measures had been enacted.

"The main thing we have to fear today about the recession is some of the proposals to cure it," said House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana. "Excessive government spending could severely impair the natural economic forces that are at work today."

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., said he hopes the Republicans are right about the upturn but added there can be a grave danger of mistaking a seasonal upturn for permanent improvement.

The Federal Reserve report said the output of mines, mills and factories stood at 102 per cent of the 1957 average in February. This was the same as the January figure, which indicated a halt in the decline. But it still is far below the 111 per cent record high of January 1960.

7 Life Members Designated by Tillson Fire Co.

Seven life memberships in the Tillson Fire Company were presented at the March meeting of the organization.

President John Schultz presented certificates and gold badges to James Guerrieri, Raymond DuBois, Irving DuBois, Lloyd Keator, Jesse Keator, Vincent Carroll and Chauncey Rowe for 20 or more years of service in the company.

Chief Robert Waddell reported that the contract for purchase of a new 750-gallon-a-minute pumper had been awarded to the Liberty Fire Equipment Co., Liberty. Chief Waddell noted that the truck specifications had been written by the fire company truck committee and the board of fire commissioners in such manner as to simplify operation and maintenance and at the same time give the best possible fire protection to the fire district in the foreseeable future.

A "Radio Bank"
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An ancient radio, donated to charity, played a cash tune twice for William Green.

While he and a companion were carrying it from the donor's home, a billfold, containing $2,600 tumbled out. They returned the money to the woman and got $1 each. En route to his office, Green heard a thud in the truck's rear checked, and found a paper bag. It held $6,850 and old radio tubes. This time, when Green showed up with the money, he got a $300 reward.

Buffalo to Join S.U.
BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller says the University of Buffalo will join the State University system in 1962, the Buffalo Evening News reported Thursday.

The governor favors the merger, making the University of Buffalo the largest unit of the system, which now includes 48 units, the newspaper said.

Kingston Man Jailed After Village Fracas

David J. Koehel, 28, of 17 Furnace Street, Kingston was sentenced to 30 days in Ulster County Jail by Saugerties Village Police Justice G. Thomas Rea Jr., this morning on a public intoxication charge involving a fracas at the Exchange Hotel in the village Thursday night, village police reported.

Saugerties Police Sgt. John J. Keeley said he was alerted by Anthony Buono of the Exchange Hotel that Koehel was disorderly. Sgt. Keeley, Sgt. Harold Mills and Patrolman Rex Deane arrested Koehel and the hearing was scheduled this morning before Justice Rea. The disturbance was reported at 10:45 p. m.

Koehel is reportedly on three years probation for a previous conviction in Kingston where he received a 60-day suspended jail sentence on a similar charge in February, village police said.

Moose Will Hold Dinner and Dance Sunday Afternoon

Kingston Lodge 970, Loyal Order of Moose, will observe St. Patrick's Day Sunday, it has been announced by Albert Eisle, who is governor.

He said the program scheduled to start at 3 p. m. included a corned beef and cabbage dinner and dance, at the lodge hall, 82 Prince Street.

Members and guests are invited to attend the Irish Day, featuring songs and dances brought to America by emigrants from that nation.

A co-feature of the day will be presentation of a special award to Edward Cline, a past governor of the lodge, and another to Earl Hopkins, a member.

Woman Bowled Over, Rector Slugged in New Tenn. Violence

An elderly white woman was knocked down and a Negro Episcopal rector slugged during an outbreak of racial violence at Chattanooga, Tenn., where Negroes for five weeks have been staging stand-ins protesting segregated theaters.

Bands of Negro and white youths roamed the streets after nine Negroes were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct at a motion picture house Thursday. The manager said the nine, each tied 14 times to buy tickets and were blocking the entrance.

Police broke up one group of white youths armed with sticks as they roved downtown. Miss Lillie Trotter, 88, said she was bowled over by Negroes fleeing white youths. The groups were hurling rocks and garbage cans at each other. Miss Trotter suffered cuts and head bruises, but her condition was not believed serious. None of the youths was injured.

Police said an ex-convict slugged the Rev. Robert Hunter, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church—a Negro parish—while Hunter was watching the stand-in demonstration. Harry Light, 34, was charged with assault and battery in the case.

Good Syrup Season

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Favorable weather conditions are giving the state's maple syrup farmers a good season, with a product described as extremely good, the State Agriculture Department says.

The department said Thursday that farmers practically had completed tapping trees in Central, Eastern and Western sections of the state. Runs began in those areas as early as Feb. 20.

About half the trees in North Country, where the weather has been colder, have been tapped. Ice storms damaged some trees in Franklin and St. Lawrence counties.

Eerie Sound Is Traced to Flame In Gas Furnace

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—The eerie sound that all Binkowskis say has been haunting them for five weeks finally drove them from their house.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Binkowski and their two sons slept Thursday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Bernice Koza, in Rotterdam. It was their first good sleep since that mysterious, high-pitched, undulating sound began piercing their eardrums, they reported.

Back in her home today, Mrs. Binkowski said that she had followed a suggestion to summon a furnace serviceman but that the serviceman could find nothing that would produce the sound.

The suggestion to call in the serviceman came Thursday night from Robert Hellman of Rochester, who said a similar high-pitched noise had bothered his family for about a month.

Hellman, a salesman, read of the Binkowskis' troubles in newspapers in Syracuse, where he was on business.

He telephoned The Associated Press Bureau in Albany to ask that his story be relayed to the Binkowskis in suburban Rotterdam.

Hellman said a serviceman for the Rochester Gas & Electric Co. had found the source of Hellman's noise: too much air in the flame of the gas furnace.

A simple adjustment fixed the trouble. Binkowski has an oil furnace and hot-water heat.

Lease for World's Fair Exhibit Is Signed for Acker

A lease for a 45,000 square-foot exhibit site at the New York 1964-1965 World's Fair was signed this week by the Fair Corporation and Power & Light Exhibit, Inc., which is administering the participation of the investor-owned electric utility industry at the Fair.

In addition to the signing of the lease by Ernest R. Acker, president of P&LE and Chairman of the Board of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, a check for $90,000 as half the first year's rent was presented by Harold S. Sutton, treasurer of P&LE and Treasurer of Consolidated Edison Company of N. Y. Inc., to J. A. Panuch, vice president in charge of Industrial, Federal, State and Special Exhibits for the Fair Corporation.

The P&LE exhibit will occupy a corner site near the lagoon on two of the Fair's principal traffic arteries.

"An exciting concept is being developed for the electric industry exhibit," Acker said. "By the middle of this year, we expect to be able to announce the principal features of the exhibit now being designed."

8 Students Hurt In Lab Explosion

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—Four of eight high school pupils injured when fuel for a miniature rocket exploded in a chemistry laboratory were in a hospital today.

The explosion shook Oswego High School Thursday and damaged the third-floor laboratory. There was no fire.

Eighteen children and their teacher, Frank Reed, were in the laboratory at the time.

The injured pupils, cut by flying glass from shattered laboratory equipment, were rushed to the hospital in two ambulances and in police cars.

Three boys and a girl were admitted to the hospital. They were: Francis Michaels, 15; David Shetland, 16; Donald Lewis, 15; and Barbara Gode, 17. All were reported in good condition.

Laos Aid Increases

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The United States has stepped up its military aid to the pro-Western Laotian government's army to meet the new threat of the Soviet-supplied Pathet Lao rebels, a reliable source reported today.

The source, whose identity cannot be disclosed, said the United States is sending more rifles and ammunition than previously, as well as more shoes, uniforms, rice and petroleum products.

The exact amounts of the increase are not available. But the source said no new or unusual types of weapons are being supplied.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to rally vigorously early this afternoon amid signs that the recession may have reached bottom or close to it.

Trading in the first two hours was very heavy at 2.21 million shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.90 at 242.40 with industrials up 3.20, rails up .30 and utilities up .70.

Pivotal stocks rose from fractions to a point or more along a broad front.

Blue chips took over a good part of the market leadership from the more speculative secondary issues following the Federal Reserve Board report that February halt in the unbroken six-month drop in over-all industrial production.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 6.56 at 676.94. Corporate bonds declined. U.S. governments showed slight change.

Finds $240,000, Is in Turmoil Since Incident

By GENE HANDSAKER
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Finding that $240,000 cash on a street a week ago today has been "one grand headache" for Negro handymen Douglas William Johnson.

"It has made me a nervous wreck," he said Thursday in the neat living room of his modest home. "I can't eat, I'm sick to my stomach."

"But the money wasn't mine, and I did what I thought was right. If it happened all over, I'd go the same thing."

What he did, after finding the canvas bag containing the $240,000 in unmarked 10s and 20s while out hunting a job, was call the FBI.

Has Been in 'Turmoil'
Brink's, Inc., from one of whose armored trucks the money had fallen, got the money back. The pleasant-faced Johnson was an overnight celebrity.

Ever since his big find, he said, he has been in a "turmoil."

"One man telephoned to talk to me about writing a book, another about getting me in pictures. But I'm not a showman. I'm not looking for movie contracts."

The county supervisors gave him a plaque. One supervisor said Johnson should have a reward of at least $10,000.

Brink's Offer
Instead, Brink's offered him a $50-a-week job as a guard and a college scholarship for the eldest of his three sons. Reward?
"I don't feel they (Brink's) are actually obligated to me," Johnson commented.

"When money is stolen, sizable rewards usually are paid for recovery of it. Of course, this was not stolen."

"The man at the company said the job was offered as a reward for my honesty."

Will Answer Monday
"I don't know whether I'd enjoy riding around day after day caged up in that truck. I imagine it's an awful hot job."

Johnson is a self-employed maintenance man who washes windows and hauls away trash. He hopes to give Brink's an answer about the job and scholarship next Monday.

Escape Injury
In Fatal Crash
POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Thirteen occupants of a Pillsbury Co. executive plane escaped injury in an aerial collision that killed two Pompano Beach men in another craft.

"We thought at first we had just made a rough landing," said George F. Pillsbury, vice president of the company, "until we saw the other plane. It was terrible."

Jack Fountain, 30, a boat builder; and Daniel Nichols, 27, an electrician, were killed in the crash 75 feet over the airport.

The Pillsbury twin-propeller plane was coming in for a landing when it collided with the other, single-engine craft.

"Honestly, we didn't know what happened," Pillsbury said. "No one was thrown out of his seat—no one was hurt. We weren't aware of what had happened until we came to a stop and the pilots told us."

Others in the executive plane were Pillsbury's wife and four children; Robert J. Keith, vice president of the firm, his wife and two children; a nurse, and pilots Jim Grogan and Jim Willette.

The party flew here nonstop from Minneapolis.

Ginn Gives Up Post With GE
NEW YORK (AP)—William S. Ginn, General Electric Co. executive who recently served a jail sentence along with other officials of electrical firms as a result of an antitrust case, resigned Thursday.

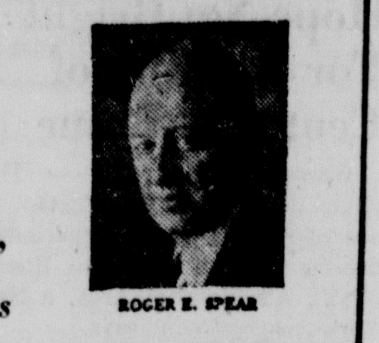

"It is my conclusion that current circumstances and, in particular, the relentless publicity involved has severely limited my efficiency in my recent position or any other management position with the General Electric Co.," Ginn said in a letter to the company.

Ginn, 45, was vice president and general manager of GE's turbine division.

Don't Emphasize Market But Focus on Stock Groups

Q "I have about $50,000 invested in what I consider to be fairly good quality stocks. Many of these stocks you have spoken well of in your column. Altogether I have about a $15,000 profit, but I'm becoming nervous about the high level of the market. Should I sell out?" M.C.

A No. Not if you can keep invested in the right stocks. You are making the common mistake of placing too much emphasis on the "market."

While it is prudent to be careful after a fast rise, there are almost always stocks that are worth holding, even in a declining market. Here are two recent examples of what I mean. In the Jones Industrial Average in 1957, the Drug Stocks, as a group, declined only about 10 per cent.

In the following 12 months they advanced about 80 per cent. Individual drug stocks made an even better showing. During last year's 120-point break in the Average, the Soft Drink stocks dropped 7 per cent in the early part of the break, then turned around and went up 26 per cent.

30 Missionaries Reach U.N. Lines
LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Thirty missionaries held captive by Congolese soldiers at Kasongo in Kivu Province have been released and have reached safety, the U.N. command announced today.

A U.N. spokesman said the missionaries were freed on the intervention of the Kivu Minister of Justice. They made their own way to the U.N. base at Kindu and now are under the protection of U.N. Malayan soldiers, awaiting evacuation to Leopoldville.

The Malaysians had sent out patrols to rescue the mission workers but they were freed before the U.N. soldiers arrived.

The United Nations announced Thursday that 23 of the missionaries were Americans but said later their nationality was not clear. U.N. officials in Kindu have been asked to clear up the confusion.

The missionaries were held by troops loyal to the leftist government of Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville. They were reported held under house arrest and to have been without food.

The missionaries brought with them alarming stories that a fanatic sect of about 100 pagans whose aim is to "kill all whites" is on the rampage in the Kasongo area.

U.N. sources said an American mission group that arrived earlier in Kindu has indicated that it is ready to go back to its mission station at Kama, in Kivu Province. They include a girl who was rescued by U.N. forces after four Congolese soldiers raped her.

A U.N. spokesman announced the lifting of a brief Congolese blockade of the airport at Coquilhatville in Equator Province, where soldiers loyal to the Leopoldville government and its army chief, Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, are in control.

School and Snow
ed earlier this week, is due to adjourn March 24 or 25.

Assembly passage of the bill permitting a two-year payment period of municipal snow removal costs was noted this week. It came from Gov. Rockefeller's office and appears assured of Senate sanction.

The measure dealing with use of slightly more than three acres of Hasbrouck Park land for the building of a new grade school was drafted late in the session mainly through the efforts of Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, of Woodstock.

New Paltz Area Methodist Notes

Passion Sunday

Passion Sunday worship services will be held in the three churches of the New Paltz Methodist Parish Sunday at 8:30, 9:15, 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. The Rev. Willett Porter will preach at 9:15, 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Our Belief in the Holy Spirit as a part of the Lenten series on Basic Christian Beliefs.

Roy Lane, president of the Wesley Student Fellowship, will preach at the early morning service in the New Paltz Church.

Spring Events Set

The announcement is made of the traditional spring dinner at the New Paltz Methodist Church, to be held this year Wednesday, May 10, in the church social hall.

The dates for the spring rummage sale sponsored by the New Paltz Methodist Church are Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22. The sale will be held in the social hall of the church.

Class Plans Trip

The confirmation class now in session at New Paltz Methodist Church will be received into the fellowship of the church on Easter Sunday, April 2. On the following Wednesday the class will go to New York City to visit Old John Street Church, Trinity Church, St. Paul's Chapel and other points of interest. In the afternoon the group will attend the showing of the film "Ben Hur."

Members of this year's class include Sheila Carle, Derek

Visit to Hospital

During Easter vacation a number of girls from New Paltz Methodist Parish will be traveling to New York City on a field trip to Brooklyn Methodist Hospital. The girls are interested in careers in the nursing profession and on Thursday, April 6, they will have an opportunity of seeing one of the hospitals offering training for prospective nurses. Mrs. Fred Sutter, a graduate of Methodist Hospital, and the Rev. Mr. Porter, will be in charge of the trip. Other girls interested in going may contact one of them as soon as possible.

Easter Sunrise Service

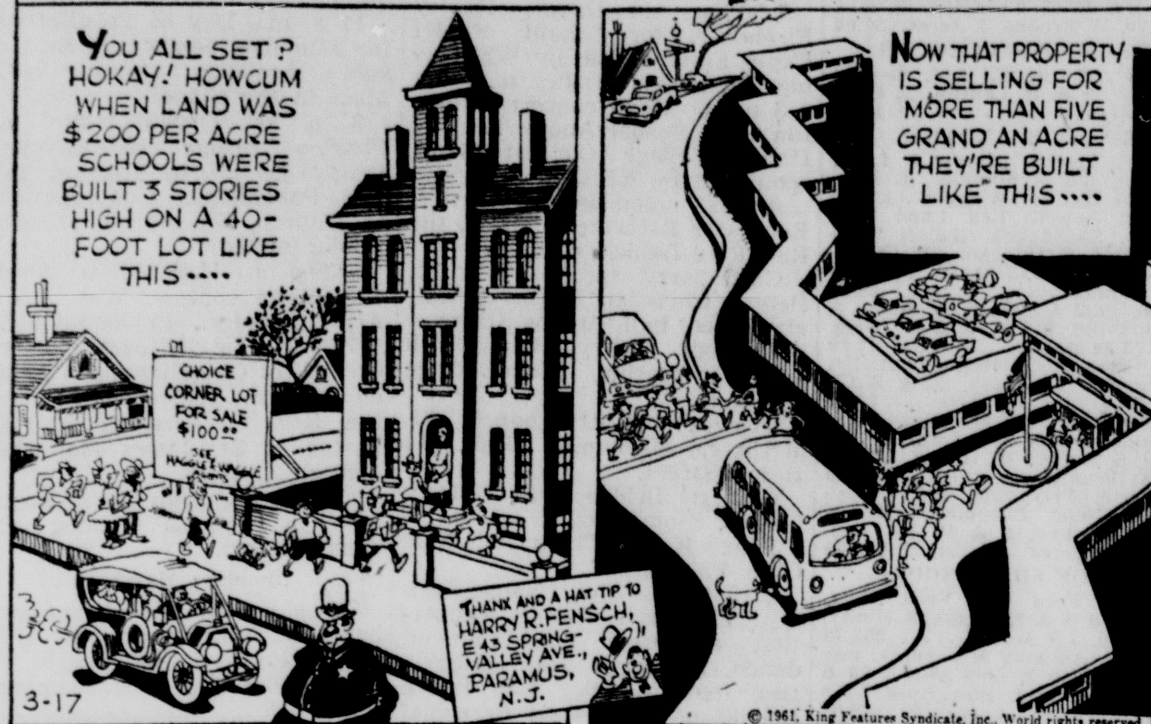

Plans are being made for the Easter sunrise service held each year on the Minnewaska Trail by the New Paltz Methodist parish. Service will be at 7 a. m. and cars will leave the New Paltz Church at 6:40 a. m. In case of inclement weather the service will be held in the New Paltz Church sanctuary.

Baptisms and Reception

The Sacrament of Baptism will be administered at the 11 o'clock morning worship service in New Paltz Methodist Church Palm Sunday. The Sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered as a part of the union Holy week service schedule, in the church on Maundy Thursday evening, and new members will be received into the fellowship of the church Easter Sunday.

Bridge Grafting Set March 21 at 2 Area Orchards

Bridge grafting demonstrations have been scheduled by the Ulster County agricultural office for Tuesday, March 21, at two area orchards.

At 10 a. m. there will be a demonstration at Jim and Leonard Clarke's orchard (Martin Farm) at Milton, and at 2 p. m. a demonstration at Al Zimmerman's farm, Clintondale. Chick Forshey and Ulster County Agricultural Agent William H. Palmer will discuss methods of handling trees girdled by mice during the past winter.

Bridge grafting, inarching seedlings and topmarking trees will be discussed and some techniques demonstrated.

Palmer said it is too early to bridge graft successfully but "cion wood" (one-year-old suckers) should be selected now, dirt removed around the trees girdled below ground level to expose healthy bark below the girdled area to the sunshine for a week or two before grafting.

CREMONA, Italy (AP)—An infuriated cow broke up an animal auction here Wednesday and chased dozens of dealers and buyers out of the market.

Policeman Giacomo Rebessi stood his ground, firing with his pistol. He missed. The cow didn't. She bowled him over and kept on chasing the fleeing crowd.

Finally Police Sgt. Mario Astengo, hiding behind a truck, shot her as she thundered past.

Charlie — It's all the way from Fourth to Fifth.

Leonard Langhorst, Wayne, Nebr.

The countryman was brought before the local justice of the peace, charged with stealing a hog. Three witnesses, being examined, swore they saw him steal it. A shrewd lawyer, having volunteered as counsel for the man, knowing the scope of the country justice's brain, arose and addressed him as follows: May it please Your Honor, I can establish this man's honesty beyond the shadow of a doubt, for I have twelve witnesses ready to swear that they did not see him steal the hog.

The justice of the peace rested his head for a few moments upon his hands as if in deep thought, and then with great dignity, and brushing back his hair, said: If there are twelve men who did not see him steal it, and only three who did, I discharge the prisoner.

An old backwoodsman drove his worn old mare into the nearby village one day and bought a few groceries at the general store. After he had been gone for a couple of hours, the storekeeper was surprised to see him trudge slowly across the street towards the store. He had seen the man drive away in his buggy and here he was again, looking as though he had walked miles.

Storekeeper — Where's your horse, Sam?

Sam — Well, it's this way (as he sank into a chair) I forgot to buy a spool of thread for my woman, and I never thought of it until I was nearly home. I just didn't have the heart to make that poor old horse of mine pay for my mistake, so I tied her to a tree and walked back.

Judge Suspends Fine; Driver Loses License

A Woodstock man involved in a traffic mishap Wednesday afternoon in which an 87-year-old Saugerties woman was injured pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated at a hearing Thursday afternoon before Police Justice Ernest E. Schirmer.

Imposition of $100 fine was suspended. However he will lose his driver's license and motor vehicle registration. Eugene Francis La Casse, 48, of Zena Road was proceeding west on Route 212 near Shultis Corners, Town of Saugerties when in collision with a car operated by Laura Mickle, 65, of Prospect Street, Saugerties, state police reported. Miss Anna Voerg, 87, of Finger Street, a passenger in the Mickle car, reported injured on the right ankle and head, was treated at the office of Dr. Herman Ash and taken to her home, troopers said.

Trooper David Wachtel issued a summons to La Casse for driving while intoxicated.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Should actors campaign for Oscars? No, say such veteran performers and past winners as Mary Astor and Spencer Tracy. Yes, says young Shirley Knight, nominated this year for the best supporting actress because of "Dark at the Top of the Stairs." Defends Campaigning "I honestly believe that if I hadn't campaigned, I wouldn't have been nominated," she contended. "In most cases, I don't think campaigning for a nomination is right. It certainly isn't right if you put on a big drive to get a nomination you don't deserve. "But if you feel that you did a job worthy of recognition, I think you should work for it—in cases where your efforts haven't been seen. "As for myself, I doubt if 200 of the 485 academy members who nominated Academy Awards for actors actually saw "Dark at the Top of the Stairs." So I felt I was justified in calling their attention to it. I spent thousands of dollars of my own money, which I could ill afford, in trade paper ads. The studio (Warner Brothers) paid half of the bills. The result: She was nominated And did she get what she wanted? Gains With Studio "Yes," declared Shirley, who is now on "The Couch" (that's a movie). "The main thing I gained was not with the public or with the movie industry. It was with the studio. When you are starting out, as I am, it's hard to get the studio to recognize you. "The academy nomination did that for me. Now when parties come along, they think of me. It will be easier for me to get loan-outs, too. That's why the nominations mean more to newcomers like myself than to anyone else in the race."

She doesn't know about her chances, although she hears the Las Vegas odds have made her the dark horse in her particular sweepstakes. At any rate, she plans no more campaigning; she figures she has already won what she was after.

Shell Research scientists reveal how they got 168.47 miles per gallon

One hundred and sixty-eight miles per gallon must be a world's record. Like most records, it could never have been achieved without the most painstaking effort.

The two Shell scientists who hold this record have given us a report on how they managed it. They have also added some tips on how you can increase your car's mileage. Not by using their own extreme modifications and outlandish techniques. But by a quiet marriage of careful driving and today's Super Shell gasoline.

Unless you are a millionaire, the details are worth reading.

Shell Research scientists, Dave Berry and Fred Schuette, in the rebuilt 1924 coupe which set the world mileage record. Its original frontal area was reduced by about 75 per cent to cut down wind resistance. Shellzone® anti-freeze was used as a coolant. And free-fitting aluminum alloy pistons were installed, each of which had only two piston rings to reduce friction. Special shock absorbers were the sole concession to comfort.

SHELL scientists are a competitive lot. Their constant pursuit of top performance has all the elements of a race.

Some years ago, an argument as to who could get the most miles out of a gallon of gasoline boiled up into a challenge. And Shell's Mileage Marathon was born.

Shell scientists have competed in this Mileage Marathon for several years. Not as a publicity stunt. But purely as a private contest of ingenuity. They use their own cars. Their own time. Their own money.

Not for everyday use

The best mileage recorded so far is a resounding 168 miles per gallon.

Many of the things contestants did to push mileage up to this world record are positively not recommended for informal marathons on the public highway. But they do throw some light on what makes a little gasoline go a long way. Here are some details.

Record-breaking car cost $35

Shell's record-breaking car was a highly modified 1924 2-passenger coupe (see cut). It was rescued from a junkyard for $35.

The only rigid requirements that had to be met to qualify for the Mileage Marathon could be written on a book of matches.

The car had to have four rubber-tired wheels. It had to weigh no less than 2000 pounds. It had to have at least 100 cu. in. piston displacement. And it had to use the same gasoline that anybody could buy at a Shell service station, with no doctoring allowed.

After that, no holds were barred. The car that won used a standard carburetor from an old one-cylinder engine.

Tire pressures up to 110 pounds

Some Marathon contestants inflated their tires as high as 110 pounds per square inch to reduce road-wheel friction.

Such crazy pressures would, of course, be quite unsafe under normal road conditions—and hideously uncomfortable, too.

But, under Shell's carefully controlled Marathon safety rules, the only ill effects were a few rattled vertebrae, some broken springs and an embarrassing bruise or two.

Pressure problems for the champs

Dave Berry and Fred Schuette, who eventually set the existing record, had to be satisfied with something less spectacular in the tire pressure department.

Their 1924 car's beat-up tires couldn't possibly take more than 50 pounds. And, even then, they felt more solid than pneumatic. But there was a helpful mileage dividend in the old, wood-spoked wheels.

They took tires that were nearly a yard in diameter. This moved the car forward an extraordinary 9½ feet at every revolution.

What's more, these ancient tires were worn so smooth that road friction was cut to a minimum. Other competitors achieved a similar result by buffing off their treads, till only the slimmest strip touched the road.

SAFETY NOTE FROM THE CHAMPS: Don't try buffing the tread off your own tires. You risk more than a puncture. It might mean a blow-out and a crash.

Muffled radiator and no fan

Many competitors went as far as to remove their engine's water pump and generator to save engine load. But Berry and Schuette grandly ignored this refinement.

However, they did remove their cooling fan to save energy. And they did muffle their radiator completely to save heat.

As anybody knows, all cars go better when properly warmed up. And, because our mileage champs used an "engine-off, engine-on" driving technique in the contest, they even designed a special exhaust-heated air duct that warmed the mixture as it was sucked into the carburetor.

Incidentally, did you know that fast warm-up is specially provided for in today's Super Shell? Its formula contains a gasoline ingredient called "Pentane Mix." This acts in your engine much as kindling acts in a log fire.

NET RESULT: Your car delivers top performance in a hurry.

One push and wheels spin for 30 minutes

Since the contest had nothing to do with wear, many daring liberties were taken with lubrication systems.

On the winning car—the transmission and wheel bearings were lubricated with light engine oil instead of with heavy oil and grease, to reduce drag. It worked.

When the front wheels were jacked up and given an experimental push, they continued to spin for half an hour!

Of course, no Shell serviceman would ever approve of such liberties being taken with your own car's lubrication. And he would be right.

A Marathon car is a Marathon car. And nobody minds if it breaks down after it wins. But your family car is a different matter.

Trust your Shell serviceman's advice on all lubrication problems. He's an expert—and he's got the finest tools, charts, lubricants and gasoline to give your car the maximum mileage it was designed to deliver.

The champs' "on-and-off" driving

Shell's record was set in two trips over an 11.94 mile course. The run was almost a walk.

The winning car was accelerated to 20 miles per hour, at which point the driver cut his engine and coasted in neutral.

Only when the "speed" dropped below 5 miles per hour was the engine restarted and the cycle repeated. All acceleration was done in high gear and at nearly full throttle. There was little choice. All other gears were removed prior to the contest.

Serious—or scientific fun?

You already know the result of all this eccentric tinkering and mad-hatter driving.

But, since "on-and-off" driving is illegal on the public road—and since most Marathon modifications are positively dangerous for normal use—you may be wondering if Shell's Mileage Marathon has any point.

Is it a serious test? Or is it a piece of semi-scientific fun that is just an excuse for a picnic? The answer is—a bit of both.

Knowledge passed on

When Marathon Day rolls around at Shell, there is certainly a picnic atmosphere at the testing grounds.

The somewhat bizarre parade of vehicles—coughing and jerking and puffing around the track has a Mack Sennett quality about it. You expect the Keystone Cops to arrive at any minute.

But remember that the Marathon itself is only a climax to months, and sometimes years, of serious and ingenious work. Not everybody sets a world record. But every contestant learns a little more about the care and feeding of automobiles. Which, after all, is Shell's main job.

Eventually, every bit of this knowledge—whether it comes from the Marathon, the workshop, or the lab—is passed on to you in the form of better and better products.

Today's Super Shell is a shining example. Thanks to continuous engine studies and mileage tests, Super Shell now contains a special mileage booster called Platformate.

Among Platformate's extraordinary super-energy components are benzene, toluene and xylene. These three components alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline.

The lesson is obvious. The first thing you do to get extra mileage from your own car is to put extra energy into your fuel tank, by using today's Super Shell. Then, if you want to boost mileage even more, take these tips from Shell's experts.

Seven tips that save gasoline

1. Don't race your engine when stationary. Every revolution is pure waste unless it is taking you somewhere.

2. Avoid jack rabbit starts. In the long run, they waste gallons of gasoline by holding automatic transmissions in low gear too long.

3. Drive at moderate speeds. Your car uses about 40 per cent more gasoline at 60 mph than at 35 mph.

4. Keep an even speed. Ragged driving uses fuel without using the power it generates.

5. Pace yourself to traffic. Don't be the fastest or the slowest. It traps you into wasteful spurts and slowdowns.

6. Keep tires up to their proper pressures. Soft tires soak up power the way a blotter soaks up ink.

7. Get your Shell man to make these checks. Your carburetor should be adjusted periodically. Spark timing should be correct. Fuel filters and air cleaner should be clean. Brakes should be properly adjusted. And your thermostat must be in working order.

Follow these simple rules—and you'll probably be surprised at the extra mileage you get with today's Super Shell.

Many car-owners report up to 30 extra miles per tankful. We can't guarantee this saving. But, unless you're a millionaire, it's worth thinking about.

Delicate as Spring...

CHEESECAKES

Ordinary cheesecakes are made with either cream cheese or cottage cheese as the basic ingredient. Extraordinary cheesecakes tastefully combine the two. Enjoy them in baked Berry Glazed Cheesecake, decorated with red-ripe fresh strawberries or raspberries, and in refrigerated Pineapple Cheesecake served with Apricot-Pineapple Sauce.

PINEAPPLE CHEESECAKE WITH APRICOT-PINEAPPLE SAUCE

Square dish, 9-inch

9-12 servings

CRUST:

2 cups vanilla crumbs 6 tablespoons butter, softened
Combine wafer crumbs and butter until well blended. Reserve $\frac{1}{2}$ cup for topping and press remaining mixture in bottom of dish.

FILLING:

2 cups cottage cheese, sieved 2 tablespoons (2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 8-oz package cream cheese 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons vanilla $\frac{3}{4}$ cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
2 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups (20-oz. can) crushed pineapple 3 egg whites

Combine cottage cheese, cream cheese, vanilla and salt. Drain pineapple; sprinkle gelatin over pineapple syrup to soften. In a saucepan, combine egg yolks, sugar and milk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Stir in cottage cheese mixture and 1 cup of the pineapple. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, then fold in the cheese mixture. Pour into prepared dish, sprinkle on reserved crumb mixture and chill overnight. Cut into squares and serve with Apricot-Pineapple Sauce*.

*APRICOT-PINEAPPLE SAUCE

Yield: 2 cups

1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups (10 oz. can) apricot nectar Dash of salt
2 teaspoons cornstarch Reserved crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Mix about $\frac{1}{4}$ cup apricot nectar with cornstarch. Heat remaining nectar to scalding; gradually add cornstarch mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in lemon juice, salt and reserved pineapple and chill.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Casserole, 6-cup

6 servings

Preheated 350° oven

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup ($\frac{1}{2}$ stick) butter
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne pepper
1 cup milk

2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup grated Parmesan cheese
5 egg yolks, slightly beaten
5 egg whites

In a saucepan, melt butter; blend in flour, salt and cayenne pepper. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Stir in Cheddar and Parmesan cheeses until melted. Remove from heat and add a small amount of hot cheese sauce to egg yolks; then, return egg yolk mixture to saucepan and blend thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry and fold in the cheese sauce. Pour into casserole (ungreased) and bake 45 minutes. Serve immediately with a mushroom sauce if desired.

VARIATIONS: Cheese Seafood Souffle may be made by adding approximately 1 cup diced cooked or canned crab meat, shrimp, lobster or other fish to the cheese-egg yolk mixture just before folding into the egg whites. Bake in the same way.

Individual Souffles may be made by dividing souffle mixture into 6 individual 1-cup casseroles. Place in pan of hot water and bake 30-35 minutes.

Golden as a jonquil . . . is a puffy cheese souffle with crust bursting forth from its dish . . . a sumptuous cheesecake resplendent on its serving platter.

Though airy light and frivolous, Cheese Souffle is a man's dish, too. Made hearty and wholesome by the protein-goodness of milk and eggs, this souffle is further enhanced by the double flavors of American-made Cheddar and Parmesan cheeses.

Because this cheese souffle is so versatile, it will become your favorite luncheon or dinner dish: spoon over a flavorful sauce or add diced seafood, poultry, meats or succulent vegetables to this basic recipe and create a new dish — every bite worthy of praise.

You'll catch bouquets with cheesecakes, too. Prepare the oven-baked and the refrigerator-chilled. Both are luscious, both combine with fruits in a delightful marriage of flavors.

Exceptional is this glamorous Berry Glazed Cheesecake . . . crust baked high and golden brown, crumb tender and velvety smooth. It's moist, yet softly compact and easy to serve as finale to an elegant dinner or as "dessert and."

Pineapple Cheesecake with Apricot-Pineapple Sauce is refreshingly cool on warm spring days. Prepare this no-bake version to impress family as well as friends. They'll love it.

BERRY GLAZED CHEESECAKE

Spring form pan, 9-inch

12 servings

Preheated 350° oven

CRUST:

2 cups graham cracker crumbs $\frac{1}{2}$ cup (1 stick) butter, melted
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar

Combine graham cracker crumbs, sugar and butter thoroughly. Press on sides and bottom of pan; chill while making filling.

FILLING:

1 pound cream cheese $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
2 cups cottage cheese, sieved 6 egg yolks
1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sugar $\frac{1}{3}$ cup flour
2 teaspoons vanilla 6 egg whites

Beat together cream and cottage cheeses until smooth; mix in sugar, vanilla and salt. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in flour. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; fold into cheese mixture. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ hours; then turn off heat, open door, and let cool in oven at least 1 hour. Chill before topping with berries and glaze.

BERRY TOPPING:

1 pint strawberries or raspberries, 2 tablespoons lemon juice
hulled 2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water

Mash $\frac{1}{2}$ cup berries and place in a small saucepan with sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water and lemon juice; bring to boiling. Mix cornstarch with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water and add to hot fruit mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens; strain and cool. Top Cheesecake with remaining berries and pour the cooled glaze over them. Chill before serving.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Cheese souffle is basically a simple dish, though it's filled with "airs" and appears high and mighty. Bake it in the individual or large-size casserole. For the latter serve with a sauce such as fresh mushroom or shrimp. Leafy greens tossed with tart dressing and buttered French bread complete the menu.

Convention Plans For B'nai B'rith Women Announced

Members and delegates from the Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women will participate in the Hudson Valley Regional Conference of B'nai B'rith Saturday and Sunday. This will be one of the semi-annual conventions held by the local Council which includes the adjacent areas of Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Rockland County, and Ellenville. This will be the first full weekend convention held by the local group and the hosts will be the Rockland County Chapter.

Those attending will arrive at Singer's Hotel, Spring Valley on Saturday afternoon. Saturday evening there will be a cocktail party and banquet dinner, featuring top entertainment.

On Sunday from 10 a. m. to noon there will be workshops stressing B'nai B'rith Youth Activities such as Hillel, B'nai B'rith Girls, and AZA. After a short adjournment for lunch and a speech by an Israeli delegate to the United Nations, there will be additional discussion groups and a summary session.

Serving as delegates from the Kingston chapter will be Mrs. Irwin Gellen, Mrs. Max Goldberg, Mrs. William Helmrich, Mrs. Arnold Pinsly, Mrs. Herbert Powell, Mrs. Charles Ronder, Mrs. Robert Ronder, Mrs. Harry Spiegel, Mrs. Merrill Stone, and Mrs. Seymour Werbalowsky.

Military Wedding For Miss Westcott And New Paltz Man

The marriage of Theodora Westcott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Westcott of Glenn Burnie, Md., to Lewis Botvid Ahlberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ahlberg of Kingston, took place at a military ceremony Saturday, Feb. 25 at the Main Chapel at Fort George G. Meade.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of lace over satin with a chapel sweep, Sabrina neckline and long, traditional pointed sleeves. A bouffant fingertip veil of nylon net was held by a crown of seed pearls and lace. The bride carried a white Bible with an orchid corsage.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Captain Cross, U. S. Army Chaplain.

The maid of honor was Miss Virginia Mace of Severna Park. The bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Jones and Miss Patricia Knause of Glenn Burnie.

The attendants chose ballerina length gowns in the pastel shades of yellow, orchid and green, and carried cascade arrangements of mums to match their gowns. They also wore tiaras of the matching mums in their hats.

Miss Mary Jane Grieve of Glen Burnie was the flower girl. She wore a full length gown of pink nylon and a tiara of pink roses.

Mr. George was the best man and the ushers were Troy Rupert and George Lagodimos, all stationed at Fort Meade.

The bride's mother wore a green ensemble with beige accessories.

Mrs. Ahlberg, the bridegroom's mother wore an antique gold satin brocade sheath dress with green accessories. Both mothers had cream colored rosebud corsages.

A reception for 75 guests was held at the NCO Club on the Post immediately following the ceremony.

The bride was a graduate from North Kingston High School, Wickford, R. I., and from the Baltimore Institute. She is employed as a clerk-typist at Fort Meade, where her husband is now stationed with the Military Police.

The bridegroom was graduated from New Paltz High School and has served four years in the U. S. Army.

After a short wedding trip to New York, the couple will make their home in Glenn Burnie, Maryland.

Weaving Exhibit Set for Saturday; Admission Is Free

An open house will be held Saturday afternoon at the Art-craft Gallery, 694 Broadway, where a new exhibit of weaving by area craftsmen is now open to the public.

Exhibitors will be present to discuss their work and answer questions. The public is cordially invited to attend the open house. Admission to the gallery, which is open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily, is free. The open house is scheduled from 2 to 4 p. m.

The gallery features in its current show, the fourth since it opened early this year, the colorful woven products of outstanding craftsmen of Ulster County, including Esther Sluizer of Woodstock and members of her adult education class of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, Angela Van den Dreisch of West Shokan who came to this country 20 years ago and operates a weaving studio in West Shokan, and a group of terra cotta figurines which are the work of Kurt Sluizer of Woodstock.

The gallery is tastefully composed, featuring a small handloom, spectacular blazes of color in woven materials, which include, carpets, curtains, stoles, scarves, upholstery material, figurines, spindles, spoons, an old lamp, a wooden tripod with bowl, benches, tables and stools in attractive rustic style, a mobile of osier and cane and a few colorful abstract paintings on the walls.

The materials are in a wide range of color and design—rich blues, purples, orange, gold, yellows, greens, which are eye-catching to the visitor. There are also a few pieces of pottery, ceramics and driftwood for decor.

The gallery offers excellent subjects for enthusiasts in color photography.

Mrs. Sluizer has a number of items in the show, including wool mohair stoles and scarves, upholstery material, curtain material, banana-colored coat material, black and white silk material, raw silk natural colored, yellow raw silk bright yellow, yellow stole with orange dots.

Angela Van den Dreisch offers place mats, cocktail napkins, tablecloths, round and square in various colors.

Jeanne Roth-Ducommun has entered some aprons in the show. Gisela Sugarman a white and dark brown carpet, which resembles somewhat the serape produced on the looms of Latin America.

Grace McVey is represented by some tweeds and linen luncheon place mats and Sadie Krickler by a white bath mat.

Judy Chase shows some linen and cotton place mats and Margaret Verwecke some place mats. This is the fourth exhibit sponsored by the gallery this year.

Immaculate Conception Children Occupy New School Building on Delaware Avenue

On Wednesday, March 15, pupils of the Immaculate Conception School were housed in their new school building on Delaware Avenue.

In honor of the occasion, Sister St. Reginald of the community of the Sisters of Misericorde spoke at a general assembly on vocations. Her visit was made possible by the Vocation Director of the Archdiocese of New York.

Sister Reginald spoke about the qualifications necessary and of the activities of communities who devote their lives to teaching, conducting orphanages, doing hospital and missionary work at home and abroad, as well as other social endeavors. The interest of the listeners was manifested by the questions that were willingly answered by the speaker.

The assembly was comprised of seventh and eighth grade students.

The Freeman will publish a feature story on the new school in a later issue.

Kingston Girl Weds Robert North

Miss Rosemary Stoutenburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stoutenburg of 38 Stephan Street, wed Robert Joseph North, son of Mr. and Mrs. John North, 154 Lucas Avenue.

The double ring ceremony took place on Sunday, Feb. 19, in St. Joseph's Church. Officiating was the Rev. William Williams.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a powder blue nylon dress with a scooped neckline and elbow length sleeves and a rayon sash of darker blue. She also wore a flowered hat to match with white gloves and a corsage of white carnations.

Miss Carol Stoutenburg, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor. She wore an aquamarine lace dress with darker blue sash and a flowered hat in matching color. She also wore white gloves and a pink corsage.

Tom Miller of Delaware Avenue was best man. Guests were received at a reception given in the Kozy Tavern.

Miss Stoutenburg is employed by Jacobson's and Sons. Her husband is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1959. He is employed by Jerry Martin Portiae.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert North are at home at 128½ Pearl Street, this city.

TWO GIRLS ON A VACATION

Q: A friend and I recently went away on a vacation together. We shared a room at a very nice hotel. During our vacation, this young woman met a man who was also staying at the same hotel. He invited her out to dinner one night and to a night club for dancing another night. She accepted both these invitations.

I was very much put out over this and thought she was very rude to go off and leave me alone, and I told her so. She accused me of being jealous and said that just because we went away together was no reason why she had to spend all of her time with me and that she was perfectly free to accept these invitations. Needless to say it has caused an unpleasant situation and a rift in our friendship. I would very much like to have your opinion on this matter.

A: I do not think that because your friend went out twice without you, you should have been put out. She could not very well ask the man to invite you to make a threesome, nor could you expect her to be tied constantly to your side. Had she gone off and left you alone every night, that would have been something again.

When to Begin Eating
Q: A discussion has arisen concerning a point of etiquette at the table. My friend contends that at a dinner party as soon as you are served, it is proper to begin eating. Whereas, I have always been taught one must wait until the hostess is served and begins to eat. Will you please tell us who is right?

A: You may begin to eat as soon as two or three others have been served.

In Speaking of Her Husband

Q: When speaking of my husband to my son's young friends—19 to 21 age bracket—I refer to him as Mr. Jones. My son thinks this sounds very snobby and that I should refer to him by his given name, Bill. Your opinion, please.

A: Correctly, you refer to him as "my husband."

WILLIAM J. DWYER JR.

William J. Dwyer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dwyer of 83 Highland Avenue, appeared Thursday before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the State of New York at Albany and was admitted to practice law in the state.

Attorney Dwyer is a graduate of Albany Law School, Class of 1960, where he received his LL.B. degree.

A graduate of St. Mary's Parochial School and Kingston High School, he attended Siena College at Loudonville from which he was graduated in 1954 with the Degree of Bachelor of Arts. He also was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Reserve Officer Training Corp. After one year at Albany Law School, he was called into active service and reported to the Artillery School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Upon completion of his course, he was ordered to Fort Tilden, N. Y., where he served in the 505th A. A. Missile Battalion (NIKE) as adjutant. After two years of service, he was returned to the Army Reserve as first lieutenant. He then resumed his studies at Albany Law School.

He is a member of St. Mary's Church, Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus and Catholic War Veterans.

Since completing Albany Law School, he has been associated with the law firm of Cook and Cook of this city.

Adventists Set Sabbath Service

Sabbath school of the Kingston Seventh-day Adventist Church will start 10 a. m. Saturday with a song service under the leadership of Mrs. George Landstrom. Superintendent, Mrs. Carl Johnson will conduct the opening exercises which will be followed by separation into classes for study and discussion of the lesson for the week entitled, Preparation for His Coming. The children will meet in Sabbath school rooms with Mrs. Andrew Seaman and her assistants.

Divine worship will begin 11:30 a. m. The Rev. Eric R. Norman, pastor, has chosen as the title for his message, Amazing Grace. Holy Communion will be administered.

Saturday begins the Missionary Volunteer Society week of prayer. At 8 p. m. Saturday special films will be shown. Following this meeting, at 9 p. m., the church school steering committee will meet.

A press workshop will be held Sunday at the New York Center, New York City, beginning at 10 a. m. Those interested may attend.

Wednesday, March 22, at 7:30 p. m., the midweek meeting will be led by the Rev. Mr. Norman. His subject, The Truth Shall Make You Free.

Next Saturday is 13th Sabbath. The special offering will go to the Middle East Division.

Braille Training To Be Discussed

In response to recent publicity, 25 persons have indicated an interest in the study of Braille.

Through this course it is hoped to train more persons who would be willing to serve as voluntary transcribers and thus provide more reading material for the blind.

In order that all concerned might better understand this project, we have invited Joseph W. Pike, the executive director of the Albany Association of the Blind, Inc. to discuss this program Wednesday, March 22, at 7:30 p. m. in room V-207 of the Vocational Building, Kingston High School.

Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend and hear Mr. Pike.

Green Hair Banned

WINDFALL, Ind. (AP)—Jimmy Rainey, 7, persuaded his mother to tint his hair green for St. Patrick's Day, but his principal won't let him come to school.

Principal Harold Wright is afraid Jimmy's presence may lead to a whole school full of green-haired pupils.

Jimmy can't return until the green food coloring has faded from his hair.

The Nimrod's Corner

By Old Doc

The last gasp of one of the most productive deer seasons on record, came from Albany last week in the release of the tabulation of the deer take for the State of New York. Only in the fall of 1957, were the nimrods in this area, more successful. The totals indicate that twenty-five hundred more adult bucks were harvested in the Catskills than were taken last year. The increasing number of successful hunters undoubtedly was caused by almost ideal weather for the entire sixteen days of the season, although there were many complaints that the woods were so dry, that deer were being spooked before the hunter had a chance to shoot. In 1959, there was a great deal of hunting the roads and even the taverns, because of many days of cold rain.

PARTY PERMITS POPULAR

In some of the townships where last year special post season deer hunts occurred, the deer harvest was somewhat under the previous year. It was planned that way. The Conservation Department attempted last season, to drastically cut the herd in these towns and to give farmers, especially orchard owners, relief from the excessive damage that was caused by an over-population of deer. A population so large, that in several instances, it was impossible for horticulturists to start new trees. The difficulties with the post season hunt, were the concentration of a large number of hunters in a small area, the necessity of appearing at a check station in order to validate a permit and to a lesser extent, the lateness of the season with very few hunters desiring to take off additional time from their employment. This year's party permit system which allowed a party of four or more to pool their licenses and obtain a permit to take an additional deer, was reasonably successful from the standpoint of good deer management, but the take under it was not as high as was expected. In the Catskill area, 6,641 permits were issued and 71 per cent of the parties were successful. A comparison of this past season's take with that of 1959, in some of the towns of Ulster County, is as follows:

Year	Town	Adult Male-Female	Fawn Male-Female
1959	Esopus	45-56	26-19
1960		55-16	3-3
1959	Hurley	65-x	x-x
1960		62-33	7-6
1959	Lloyd	16-16	4-3
1960		25-7	2-1
1959	Marbletown	75-18	10-4
1960		86-31	7-6
1959	Marlborough	1-x	x-x
1960		5-x	x-x
1959	New Paltz	47-75	41-29
1960		48-30	6-6
1959	Olive	157-x	x-x
1960		162-59	13-12
1959	Saugerties	39-x	x-x
1960		64-24	x-x
1959	Shandaken	267-x	x-x
1960		379-154	33-31
1959	Ulster	12-4	1-x
1960		16-13	3-2
1959	Woodstock	110-x	x-x
1960		108-37	8-8

ULSTER SECOND IN STATE

A breakdown of the total by county, shows that once again Sullivan leads the state with 4,896 deer, followed by Ulster with 3,417. Delaware, another Catskill county was third with a total of 3,325. Nearby Columbia was sixth in the state total and Dutchess was eleventh.

We solemnly pledge to refrain from further mention of deer, until after the trout season is over. There are only 14 days before it starts.

Ageless Spahnne Beats Nats

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

The adage that "youth must be served" doesn't mean anything to veteran baseball pitchers Warren Spahn, Sam Jones and Robin Roberts.

Spahn, Jones and Roberts — three of the National League's "old pros" who number 108 years among them — turned in impressive performances Thursday along the exhibition trail.

Spahn, who will be 40 next month, gave up one run in seven innings as the Milwaukee Braves' "B" team whipped the Washington Senators 8-2. Jones, 35, worked the last four innings in shutout fashion in the San Francisco Giants' 7-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Roberts, 34, blanked the Chicago White Sox over the last four frames while the Philadelphia phils coasted to a 13-3 triumph.

In other games Thursday, Kansas City handed Baltimore its fifth straight setback 5-1. Pittsburgh posted its sixth success in seven outings by defeating Milwaukee's "A" team 7-2. Minnesota edged Cincinnati 5-2. Detroit topped St. Louis 7-4. Cleveland nipped the Los Angeles Angels 3-2 in 10 innings and the Los Angeles Dodgers downed New York 6-1.

Superb Stint

Spahn, getting in shape for Milwaukee's opening day assignment, struck out four and walked none as he scattered nine hits. The slender southpaw, a 20-game winner 11 times, yielded a homer to Jim King for the lone run off him. Rookie catcher Joe Torre paced the Braves' attack with two homers and a double.

Stu Miller hurled the first five innings for the Giants, gaining credit for the victory although touched for Boston homers by Jackie Jensen and Vic Wertz.

Roberts allowed just two hits and his four scoreless innings gave the rugged right-hander a string of seven shutout frames in two appearances.

The phils tallied nine times in the third inning to chase Herb Score. Johnny Callison and Clay Dalrymple homered for Philadelphia in the big uprising.

Norm Siebern's three-run home run powered the A's to their victory over the Orioles as Bud Daley, Norm Bassen and Don Larsen spaced seven hits. Vernon Law worked the first five innings in the Pirates' success over Milwaukee.

Duke Snider and Tommy Davis slugged Yank hurler Ralph Terry for successive homers in the sixth inning in the Dodgers' triumph. Phil Ortega, Roger Craig and Stan Williams held New York to three hits.

Lakers Favored To Top Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — Unless Elgin Baylor stubs his toe, the Los Angeles Lakers tonight should eliminate the Detroit Pistons from the Western Division playoffs in the National Basketball Association.

Baylor already has led the Lakers two straight victories over the Pistons in the best-of-five series. He bagged 40 points Tuesday and followed with 49 more 24 hours later at Los Angeles as he and the Lakers continued to feast at the expense of the Pistons.

In the Eastern Division, the Philadelphia Warriors also are on the brink of elimination. The Syracuse Nationals beat them 115-114 Thursday night for a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five semifinals.

The Nats can win the series by beating the Warriors Saturday at Philadelphia.

Should the Lakers win tonight, they'd have to rush to St. Louis where they and the Western Division champion Hawks would open a best-of-seven final series in a game to be nationally televised Saturday afternoon (NBC).

If Detroit is able to bounce back tonight, a fourth clash with the Lakers is scheduled here Saturday afternoon and would be televised coast-to-coast. In the event the Pistons even the series, the teams would return to Los Angeles to settle matters Sunday.

Billikens Survive A Hurricane

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A couple of thousand guys in green hats can't be wrong on the eve of St. Patrick's Day—especially when they are cheering for other guys named Foley, Blaney, Shea, O'Connor, etc.

That's the way it went in Madison Square Garden Thursday night when Holy Cross beat Detroit 86-82 and advanced to the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

The green-hatted Crusader fans in the crowd of 13,238 wouldn't give up, even when their favorites were 10 points down, and Foley, Blaney, Shea etc. responded with a fine come-back from behind victory.

The other game, in which St. Louis barely recovered from the initial shock of trailing by 11 points in the first four minutes to edge Miami, Fla., 58-56, was a different matter. There the standout player of the game, Miami's little Dick Hickox, lost control of the ball seconds before the finish and St. Louis cashed in on the bobble for the winning points.

The sid Irishman in the place was Bob Callahan, the Detroit coach, who commented:

"First (Jack) Foley began hitting, then the fouls came. We were behind and had to get the ball. We were taking our risks on fouls and they cashed in on them. We both had the shots. They made theirs and we didn't."

But to the noisy crowd it appeared that Holy Cross was just a team that wouldn't give up and which couldn't miss its shots in the clutch.

Strong Comeback

Foley, the long, lean Crusader sharpshooter, was held to 10 points in the first half but came back after a rest with 20 in the second. George Blaney made good on his first nine field goal attempts and wound up with 25 points.

And Tim dshea, who had a remarkable 12-for-12 record from the foul line, popped in eight straight free throws inside of two minutes just before the finish to turn a 74-74 tie into a decisive 82-76 lead.

The first game was tied at 56-56 with 45 seconds to go after St. Louis had overcome Miami's early lead.

Miami got the ball and took time out to set up the final shot. Hickox, a pesky 5-6 player who gave the Billikens trouble all night, was dribbling near the center line when he lost control of the ball momentarily. St. Louis sophomore Don Reid grabbed the ball, passed to Tom Keiffer, who was alone under the basket when he tossed in the winning shot three seconds before the final buzzer.

As a result, Holy Cross will play Memphis State and St. Louis will meet Colorado State University in the quarter-finals Saturday night.

Two more first round games are scheduled Saturday afternoon — Army vs. Temple and De Paul vs. Providence — with the winners meeting Dayton and Niagara in quarter finals next Tuesday.

Canadiens Near Title Clinching

MONTREAL (AP) — "It looks rosier now, but we're not in yet. Remember, we still have to win that big game."

That was coach Toe Blake speaking after his Montreal Canadiens dumped the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 Thursday night and all but assured themselves of first place in the tight National Hockey League race.

The victory gave the Canadiens a three-point lead over the Maple Leafs in one of the closest races in years for the NHL championship.

Award Half-Million Contract to Build Novice Ski Area at Belleayre Mountain

Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm announced today that contracts have been awarded to five New York State construction firms for the development of a novice ski area at the State-owned Belleayre Mountain Ski Center in the Catskills. The project, to cost nearly half a million dollars, will be the first major expansion of the Center since it opened in January of 1950.

Scheduled for completion by December of this year are two new ski trails, lodge and cafeteria, a double chair lift and additional parking areas. The novice area will be located just below the present Belleayre facilities and is expected to accommodate 2,000 skiers.

The following contracts for the job have been awarded by the Conservation Department: Edward L. Nezelek, Inc. of Johnson City for construction of the base lodge at a cost of $137,760;

Whitman Electric, Inc. of Creek Locks, N. Y., for electrical work in the lodge at a cost of $17,170;

C. B. Strain & Son, Inc., 34 Cannon Street, Poughkeepsie for plumbing work in the lodge at a cost of $15,886, and for installing a heating and ventilating system at a cost of $19,316;

Thalle Construction Co., Inc. of 365 Tuckahoe Road, Yonkers for grading, paving, water supply, sewage disposal, electric service and incidental improvements at a cost of $149,813.50;

The Colorado Fuel and Iron Corporation, John A. Roebeling's Sons Division of 575 Madison Avenue, New York City for construction of a double chair lift at a cost of $117,000.

Bids for the construction were taken on March 1 and contracts were awarded to 17 business firms among the 77 bidders that submitted proposals. Work is expected to begin in April as soon as weather permits.

"Skiing has become one of the most popular winter sports in New York State," Commissioner Wilm said, "and the demand for good facilities increases every year."

Traffic Increase

He said that during the 1959-60 season, five times as many people (126,000) used the Belleayre Ski Center as in 1950 (25,500) when it opened. In fact, Wilm stated, the crowds wanting to ski at Belleayre this past season have been so great that many people had to be turned away.

The double chair lift for the new novice area will be approximately 3,200 feet long with a 414-foot vertical drop and will have a capacity for about 800 persons per hour, Commissioner Wilm said. Two new ski trails will be cleared the full length of the lift to a maximum width of 80 feet. Additional parking areas will also be developed in the vicinity of the new base lodge to be constructed, with room for 400-600 cars. The lodge will contain a cafeteria with seating capacity for 200, ski shop, first aid room, and combination ski school office and locker room.

Facilities at the center originally included 3 major trails, a rope tow, a single chair lift 2,950 feet long with a vertical drop of 785 feet, summit shelter, temporary base shelter, and access road with parking area. Over the years since 1950, the Ski Center has gradually been expanded to include 12 more ski trails, an additional rope tow, 2 T-bar lifts, the present permanent lodge, a maintenance building, and greatly enlarged parking areas. Present facilities can accommodate a maximum of 5,000 skiers daily.

Although other facilities at the Belleayre Mountain Ski Center are open to summer visitors, who may ride to the summit in the chair lift, the Conservation Department plans to keep the novice ski development open only during the winter skiing season.

Great Day for the Irish

Wearers of Green In Strutting Mood

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following byline is the real McCoy.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

By IRISH DONNELLY

NEW YORK (AP) — Glorious was the word of the Irish for this St. Patrick's Day. The annual celebration in honor of Ireland's patron saint set Gaelic hearts singing. Adding a hoody ingredient was the fact they're in command at the White House. And that's no blarney, for isn't President John Fitzgerald Kennedy one of their very own?

Six-Hour Parade

So the wearers of the green were in a strutting mood as 60 battalions of marching groups—120,000 strong—were lining up 16 abreast for the 2.5-mile, 6-hour parade up Fifth Avenue.

Among the marchers: 86 bands, 6 drum and bugle corps, a pipe and drum corps, an Irish war-pipe band, 2 drum corps, 9 pipe and drum corps, a bugle corps, 3 pipe, drum and bugle corps and 14 pipe bands. The fashionable avenue was divided by a green traffic stripe that extended from Washington Square to 110th Street.

Pat Clancy Marshal
The grand marshal was John T. (Pat) Clancy, Queens borough president and "of the blood"—a requirement for the exalted post. Francis Cardinal Spellman and other church dignitaries were to view the parade from the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

There were seats in the official reviewing stand at 64th street and Fifth Avenue for Willy Brandt, mayor of West Berlin; Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller; Mayor Robert F. Wagner; the Rev. Laurence J. McGinley, S.J., president of Fordham University; Dr. Thomas J. Kieran, Irish ambassador to the United States; Frederick H. Boland, Ireland's representative to the United Nations and U.N. assembly president; and Frank Aiken, Irish minister of external affairs.

Dignity Is Must
The sons of Erin proclaim their parade the largest and greatest in the world. It's sponsored by the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America, and nothing is permitted that would detract from Irish dignity. Vehicles and floats are banned.

This Gal Very Active-at 75

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—At the age of 75, Miss Harriet E. Roe could be excused from anything more strenuous than hooking rugs and lifting an occasional cup of tea. Right now, the retired teacher is busy with roller and ice skating, ballet and modern jazz dancing and mountain climbing. Eight years ago she fractured her ankle in a roller-skating mishap. She took up ballet dancing, after the bone healed, to strengthen the ankle—so it would be in shape for mountain climbing.

State University Standards Kept Below Colleges'

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP) — The State University's standards have been deliberately kept below those of private colleges by the Legislature, governors, the Board of Regents and others, a Cortland professor contended Thursday.

Also, Gov. Rockefeller's student-aid project "won't help anybody get into school, because the accommodations are lacking," Dr. John Shaffer, professor of education at the State College of Education, told a reporter.

The wealthy northeastern states, Shaffer said, "are generally failing to support low-tuition public colleges and universities."

He said the State University was faced with a shortage of buildings, equipment and faculty members and "does not have them because the dominantly private-school legislature has never appropriated adequate money."

Shaffer repeated and added to complaints he made in an article in the current issue of the magazine "The Nation."

The private-school argument is that "it is hard to sell a product that is given away down the street," Shaffer said, but "the academic elite, including private-school liberals in the governor's office, have seen to it that it is not the same product."

He cited what he called a shocking lack of secretarial, janitorial, clerical and library help, and lack of other devices and services for the faculties of the 11 colleges of education in the State University.

"It is not the same product," he said, "after New York teachers' colleges (colleges of education) have been crowded to four times their rated institutional capacity — and then have turned away four out of five applicants."

"And we are the last colleges that applicants turn to, if they have any money," he said.

He said the Board of Regents, "with full responsibility for the development of a public program of higher education, supported the private-school interests exclusively and mustered political support for the private-school legislators by describing the 'damage' that would derive from State University 'competition.'"

He added that administrators of private and public colleges should cooperate with each other in planning and, when needed, share facilities.

Snow by Sunday Is Area Outlook

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The extended forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today to 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Eastern New York—Quite cold at the beginning; some warming Sunday and not so cold next week. Temperatures averaging a few degrees below normal. A south-western low pressure area appears to be developing and offers a threat of some snow by Sunday. Showers are likely by Tuesday and Wednesday.

Maize sugar weather will be excellent at the beginning in the central and south portions. Too cold in the extreme north and favorable again by mid-week.

Western New York—Seasonable weather is indicated. Temperatures are expected to average a little below normal. Fair and cold again tonight. Moderating Saturday, probably followed by showers Saturday night or Sunday. Partial clearing, cooler Monday. Another shower period likely Tuesday or Wednesday. Less than one-half of rain is expected.

Temperature normals—Normal temperatures over Upstate New York now range from daytime highs in the middle 30s in the north and middle 40s in the south, to nighttime lows of near 20 in the north to the middle and upper 20s in the south.

Veteran Waiter Rates Tipsters

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—After 35 years as a waiter, Jack Spaan is an authority on frogs.

Frogs are cheap tipsters, explains the man who began handling food on Mississippi steamboats in 1926.

Spaan rates his customers by occupations: Big executives are good tipsters, lawyers are poor ones, politicians are very tight "and doctors are awful, the world's worst."

• BRIDGE Team of Four Is Bridge Test

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Team of four knockout competition is a form of duplicate that comes close to reproducing rubber bridge conditions.

Each hand is played exactly twice. The first time pair "A" of team 1 plays North and South against pair "A" of team 2. Later on pair "B" of team 1 plays East and West against pair "B" of team 2. The object, of course, is to win as many net points as possible.

This article will appear at the same time as the Vanderbilt Cup knockout team tournament is taking place and will be the first of several discussing interesting hands from previous tournaments.

The bidding in the box is that by pair "A" of team 1. West opened the five of spades and dummy's ten held the trick. A heart lead was ducked by East and won by South. Now a diamond lead knocked out West's ace and eventually South made 11 tricks. If East had jumped up with the ace of hearts and led a second spade he could have held South to his contract.

When pair "B" of team 2 sat North and South, North became declarer at three no-trump. East opened the eight of spades, Dummy's king was allowed to hold the trick and when East got in with the ace of hearts he led a second spade to set the contract two tricks.

Both vulnerable

North East South West
